Soviet Defeated In Move For Ike Doctrine Debate

Lodge Assails Charge, Votes For Discussion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—The U.N. Steering Committee beat down today a Soviet demand for immediate Assembly debate on the Eisenhower doctrine and other alleged aggressive acts by the United States.

The committee voted 8-6 against the Russian move after U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. denounced the complaint as "stupidly false" and a "gigantic cock and bull story."

Lodge, however, conformed to the standing U.S. policy in favor of airing all charges against the United States. He voted with the Soviet delegation for a debate. Others voting for debate were Czechoslovakia, Egypt, India and Britain.

France Votes "No"

Countries voting against were Nationalist China, Denmark, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, France, Italy, Peru and Turkey. Pakistan abstained and the 16th committee member, Prince Wan Waihayakon of Thailand, Assembly president, did not take part in the voting.

Lodge said the United States did not object to inscription of the proposed item on the Assembly agenda "in the belief that membership in the United Nations gives every member government the right to make a fool of himself if he wants to, and that is a right of which the Soviet Union in this case has taken complete advantage."

Assembly Has Final Say

The final decision is up to the Assembly. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov is expected to renew his demand when the Assembly takes up the report of the steering committee.

Kuznetsov charged that the Eisenhower doctrine was aimed at direct U.S. intervention in the internal affairs of the Middle East, that the United States was committing aggressive actions by building air and military bases in countries around the globe, and that "ruling circles" in the United States were preparing for atomic warfare.

Lodge said the Soviet proposal is a "thinly veiled and deliberately timed attack on President Eisenhower's Middle Eastern policy because the policy would prevent Soviet subversion of the sovereignty of all the small states in the Middle East."

Doctor's Whale Hunt Failure

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Feb. 14 (AP)—Dr. Paul Dudley White came back from his helicopter hunt for whales today with a story of the big one that got away.

President Eisenhower's heart specialist, who had hoped to measure the heartbeat of a whale, said the five-day expedition to Baja California failed to produce any worthwhile results.

Only one record of pulsations was obtained by the elaborate electronic set-up employed for the experiment, he said, and it isn't certain whether it records the whale's heart or his muscular movement.

The main trouble, he said, was that the dart-tipped electrodes fired from a helicopter into the backs of the gray whales in Scammon lagoon, some 300 miles below the U.S. border, couldn't penetrate the tough skin and blubber to reach the whales' tissue.

On the one occasion the tissue was reached, the dart ripped out after a few seconds and left the expedition with its single, inconclusive record, Dr. White said.

Eisenhower OKs Changes In Resolution

Says Revised Text Designed To Meet Aims Of Program

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower, after a fresh study, tonight stood by his assertion that the Middle East resolution approved by two Senate committees is "designed to accomplish the purposes" of the administration's program for that area.

And he expressed confidence that Congress in the end will enact a resolution "entirely satisfactory" to him.

But White House press secretary James C. Hagerty declined to go so far as to say the President accepts the committee-approved resolution "without reservation."

"I didn't say that," Hagerty replied.

The two committees yesterday changed key language in the administration resolution before voting 20 to 8 approval of the modified version. That modification dealt with use of American forces in the Middle East.

Hagerty said last night Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles wanted to study the language change further, but that both men at that time believed "the language is designed to give the president the authority he asked for."

Late today the President, vacationing here, talked by telephone with Dulles again and Hagerty then told a news conference:

"The President has now examined the text of the joint resolution on the Middle East as approved by the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees of the Senate. He has conferred with the secretary of state on the wording of the resolution.

"The President feels that the Senate committees' text is intended and designed to accomplish the purposes outlined by the President in his message to the Congress of Jan. 5, 1957.

"He hopes that the Senate will act promptly and approve these purposes by a decisive vote."

Johnson Sees Senate Accepting Revisions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Senate approval of the modified Middle East resolution was forecast today by Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.), the majority leader.

Johnson said he favored the legislation, which proclaims the readiness of the United States to fight Communist aggression in the Middle East, if President Eisenhower deems it necessary.

He predicted it would be passed by the Senate in substantially the same form it came out of the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees yesterday. Meeting jointly the committees approved the resolution on a 20-8 vote.

Huge Snowman Falls, Kills Girl

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 14 (AP)—A 10-foot snowman on the University of Minnesota Duluth branch campus toppled today onto an 8-year-old girl, killing her.

Louise Rosenthal was standing on the ground, looking up at the snowman, when the figure collapsed.

The snowman had been built for Snow Week on the UMD campus, a student-directed activity.

Louise, a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Rosenthal, was a student at the Duluth branch laboratory school. She attended a Valentine's Day skating party at the school just before the accident.

Treasury Would Hike Bond Interest Rate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Treasury announced today it wants to raise the interest it pays on U.S. savings bonds to 3 1/4 per cent. The present rate is 3 per cent.

If Congress approves — as expected — the change will be retroactive to Feb. 1.

Other contemplated changes in the savings bond program, also retroactive to Feb. 1, include:

The E bonds will reach maturity—and maximum value—in eight years and 11 months instead of the present nine years and eight months. The issue price and the face value will remain the same.

Seaton Under Fire At Oil Price Inquiry

Secretary Opposes Price-Wage Controls

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Seaton proclaimed today his opposition to peacetime price-wage controls and said there is nothing he can do about recent oil and gasoline price increases.

Investigating senators jumped him on grounds he had not appealed to the oil industry to hold down prices.

"There is nothing I can do about it," Seaton said evenly.

Before Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and a couple of other Democrats went after him on the price situation, Seaton reported an "encouraging" outlook for the oil lift to Europe.

Europe Counts On More Oil

A report brought back from Europe last night, he said, indicates the continent now is counting on getting 80 instead of 75 per cent of the oil of all types which it needs to meet normal demands for the first three months of this year. This oil will come from the United States and elsewhere.

Seaton spent the day as a witness before a Senate Antitrust-Public Lands subcommittee investigating the lift. The subcommittee, which has heard some testimony the program has been a failure, also is investigating the domestic price boosts.

No Seizure Law

Seaton said over and over that he and the government have no power to control prices. He said also that there is no law that would allow the government to seize the oil industry.

While Seaton said "the matter of price is inevitably of continuing interest and concern to every American citizen," he insisted he is in no position to say whether the recent oil price hikes were justified. Nor, he said, does he have any right to look into prices or the books of the oil companies.

That didn't satisfy some of the senators. Sens. Carroll (D-Colo.), Kefauver and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) took turns grilling the secretary—a former senator himself—on the price issue.

He declared the United States "is willing today to bring about, under effective inspection, a cessation of the arms race in both the conventional and nuclear fields, and to take important steps" to provide protection against surprise attack.

School Teacher Identified As Notorious Imposter

NORTH HAVEN, Maine, Feb. 14 (AP)—A school teacher who injected new life into this little island community was brought ashore by state police today and identified by them as a notorious—but brilliant—impersonator.

Islanders knew him as Martin Daniel Godgart, who taught English, Latin and French, helped youngsters with speech and recreation, organized a Sea Scout unit, joined the Lions Club and was "one of the best superintendents the Baptist Sunday school ever had."

But police said "Godgart" admitted he is Ferdinand Waldo Demara Jr. of Lawrence, Mass., who has adopted many roles and names but none more spectacular than that as Dr. Joseph C. Cyr, an able practicing surgeon with the Canadian Navy in Korea.

Demara's formal education ended in high school.

Trooper Detectives Millard Nickerson and James Milliken arrested him just outside the small 40-pupil high school shortly before the noon recess and took him to Augusta.

Dulles Proposal Raises Doubts In Egypt, Israel

CAIRO, Feb. 14 (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare met for 3 1/2 hours with President Nasser today in an air of doubt and concern over the Dulles proposals for getting Israeli forces out of Egypt and Gaza.

Doubts were raised and clarifications sought on the Israeli as well as the Arab side over the two-point Dulles plan.

Hare recently returned to Egypt after a month of conferences in Washington. He went to Nasser's home for the long talk.

Instructions Sent To Eban

The Israeli Cabinet held two sessions and Israeli Premier Ben-Gurion conferred at Tel Aviv Thursday with U.S. Ambassador Edward Lawson. Then new instructions were sent to Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban on how to deal in Washington with Dulles on his proposals.

(Israel wants guarantees beyond Dulles' promises of support for Israeli claims to freedom of shipping and security from attack as conditions of withdrawal.)

Even before Hare's lengthy session with Nasser, Egypt began throwing up a hedge of conditions against the Dulles proposals.

Refugee Question

Abdel Kader Hatem, director of information, said in a broadcast that U.N. resolutions of 1948 on repatriation of Arab refugees must be implemented before the question of Israeli ships passing through Egyptian territorial waters is discussed.

Secretary Dulles, in talks with Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban last Monday, was reported to have proposed a two-point plan for Israel's withdrawal of troops from the coast of the Gulf of Aqaba and the Gaza Strip of Palestine. He was said to have promised that the United States would publicly declare its support of free navigation in the gulf, and the stationing of U.N. forces or large numbers of observers in the strip.

Two Soldiers Hanged At Ft. Leavenworth

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb. 14 (AP)—Two young soldiers—one convicted of murdering a girl in Germany, the other of killing a cab driver during a robbery—went stolidly to their deaths on the Ft. Leavenworth gallows early today.

The hangings of Thomas J. Edwards of Ardmore, Okla., and Winfred D. Moore of Virginia Beach, Va., both 23 and both Negroes, were the first carried out at the U. S. Army Disciplinary Barracks here since 1945.

Moore, husband of Mrs. Patricia Moore, Columbus, Ga., was convicted at Ft. Bragg, N.C., of murdering the cab driver June 30, 1953. Edwards, whose widow lives in Ardmore, had been convicted at Kitzingen, Germany, March 1, 1953.

Firms Headed By Wife Given Big Contracts

Assistant Defense Secretary Denies Any Impropriety

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower tonight accepted the resignation of Asst. Secretary of Defense Robert Tripp Ross, who has been under Senate committee inquiry regarding Army contracts let to his wife.

In resigning Ross wrote the President he has been guilty of no wrongdoing, but feels that his worth to the Defense Department "has been impaired by the very serious implications" stemming from the investigation.

In reply to a question put at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the President did not ask that Ross resign. His resignation is effective Feb. 20.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) has been looking into contracts totaling millions of dollars from the military services to firms headed by Ross' wife, Mrs. Claire Wynn Ross, and her brother, H. D. Wynn of Knoxville, Tenn.

Mrs. Ross is president of Wynn Enterprises, Inc., of Knoxville, which obtained contracts totaling about five million dollars in 1956. She and Wynn are active in the Southern Athletic Co., also of Knoxville, Tenn.

Ross Ex-Officer Both Firms

Ross, who has been with the Defense Department since 1954, is a former officer of both firms.

In accepting the resignation, Eisenhower said he understands "the reasons you set forth" for quitting, "in spite of your conviction that nothing you have done violates any legal or ethical standards that must be observed in the government."

But the President expressed no view in his brief letter to Ross regarding the merits of the case. The chief executive did say:

"I deeply appreciate the concern you express for the interests and requirement of the Department of Defense."

"I also want to thank you for the service you have rendered under the secretary of Defense Wilson during the past three years and for your contribution to the effective fulfillment of the Defense Department programs and mission."

Eisenhower, in a conclusion, extended to Ross "best wishes for the future."

Ross told McClellan last month that he had "severed all connection with Wynn Enterprises, Inc., and with the Southern Athletic Co. and its affiliated companies in February 1952." That was after his election to Congress as a Republican from New York's 6th District.

But the Nashville Tennessean reported that Ross was listed as a vice president of Southern Athletic in its annual report to the Tennessean secretary of state, June 24, 1955, three years after he said he resigned.

H. D. Wynn said the 1954 listing of Ross was an error not discovered until long afterward. Wynn had signed the report to the state.

Informed sources said Ross had told Senate investigators recently that while serving in his government post he had arranged a meeting for his industrialist brother-in-law with a Marine Corps general.

He was reported to have said that this incident had slipped his mind when he told investigators previously that he had not given his relatives any help in connection with their contracts.

Steel Union Chief Holding 2 To 1 Lead

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 14 (AP)—With only a small fraction of the eligible vote accounted for in unofficial returns, United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald today was well ahead in his reelection bid.

Unofficial results from 654 of the big union's 2,700 locals gave McDonald 148,543 votes to 64,183 for Donald C. Rarick, a comparative unknown in the steelworkers union a year ago.

Despite McDonald's better than 2-1 lead Rarick, a McKeesport, Pa., millworker, said he had no intention of conceding defeat until the official count is announced. That may not come until May 1.

Brownell Criticizes Disenfranchisement Of Negroes In South

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today that many more Southern Negroes could have voted last year if the administration's civil rights program had been in effect.

He told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that from 4,000 to 6,000 Negroes had been stricken from registration rolls in Ouachita Parish in Louisiana after being challenged by the White Citizens Council of the Parish.

Brownell said most of the Negroes were subsequently denied any opportunity to establish their qualifications.

Had the administration's program been in effect, the Department of Justice would have been able to initiate a civil action "for the purpose of restoring the Negro voters to the rolls of the registered voters in time to vote in the November elections," he said.

Also, Brownell testified, registrars in three North Carolina precincts imposed technical requirements that kept Negroes from qualifying for the vote.

In these Carolina and Louisiana cases, Brownell said, "the proposed legislation would have been of great assistance in protecting the right to vote."

"In most of these situations, civil remedies would enable the government to take affirmative action to deal with attempts at what amounts to mass disenfranchisement of Negroes in time to be effective," he said.

Sen. Ervin (D-NC) challenged Brownell's description of the situation. The senator said there are approximately 7,500 local election officials in North Carolina and Brownell had been able to criticize the actions of only three of them.

Employee Group Accepts Salary Board's Action

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Maryland Classified Employees Assn. today reversed its stand on the action of the State Standard Salary Board in freezing all State job classifications and salaries for one year.

In a resolution, the 37-member executive committee agreed to acquiesce to the action. The committee also expressed confidence in State Personnel Commissioner Russell S. Davis and said it would aid his staff "in every possible manner" in the study of job classifications during the duration of the freeze.

Last week, the group had said it was "unalterably opposed" to the pay raise blockade. It also had demanded that an outside team of experts, rather than Davis' own staff, conduct the job survey.

The association represents 18,000 classified employees. Today's reversal said the association still feels the Salary Board's action was unwise.

But it said in part: "Whereas, although members of the Maryland Classified Employees Assn. have disagreed at times with decisions of Hon. Russell S. Davis, commissioner of personnel, and the members of the Standard Salary Board, Mr. Davis has shown himself to be a loyal and consistent friend of the State employees."

"Resolved that the executive committee and the advisory board of this association, in joint session, hereby express confidence in Mr. Davis and his willingness to assist him and his staff in every possible manner, in the conduct of the State-wide salary and classification survey."

Instead of insisting on an outside firm to handle the survey, the group said it intends to develop its own policy regarding "the principles of job classification."

A spokesman said the group will proceed with its own long-range plan for salaries.

Post Office Dept. Halts Lease-Purchase Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Post Office Department today announced it is temporarily suspending its lease-purchase program for obtaining new post office buildings on the long-term payment plan.

A similar announcement was made yesterday by the General Services Administration in view of "inflationary pressures in the construction industry."

GSA handles general purpose federal buildings which may incidentally include postal facilities. The Post Office Department has its own separate program for exclusively postal facilities.

The post office said: "Further advertisements for offers to construct post office buildings under lease - purchase contracts will be temporarily deferred until such projects can be financed at reasonable interest rates in a competitive construction market at justifiable annual payments in lieu of rent."

GSA said, and the Post Office Department echoed the idea today, that the lease-purchase program will be resumed when "inflationary pressures in the construction industry recede."

Projects affected by suspension of the lease - purchase program, with estimated cost of each, include:

Maryland: Denton post office and federal building, $415,000; Baltimore federal office building, $19,170,000.

West Virginia: Charleston courthouse and federal office building, $3,820,000; Huntington federal office building, $3,298,200; Martinsburg post office and courthouse, $1,400,000; Mt. Hope Bureau of Mines building, $700,000; Parkersburg, post office and federal building, $3,045,000; Roncovevete post office and federal building, $255,000.

Washington, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Air Force issued details and photographs today of its new "giant of the airways," the Douglas C132 which will have a load of twice that of present cargo carriers.

The huge plane, powered with four jet turbine-propeller engines, can carry 200,000 pounds, has a speed of more than 460 miles per hour and, with a lesser payload, a range of 3,500 miles, the Air Force said.

With its maximum load, plus the weight of fuel and the weight of the aircraft, the C132 will take off at a gross weight of more than half a million pounds.

The 200,000-pound load for the C132 will be twice the load lift of the biggest American cargo carrier in existence, the C99, a transport version of the B36 bomber.

The 200,000-pound lift will be for a moderate range. At the full 3,500 miles, the load will be 100,000 pounds.

Viscount Given Bum Steer, Hagerty Says

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 14 (AP)—James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said today a member of Britain's Parliament must have been "misinformed" in saying the United States threatened economic sanctions against Britain in the Suez crisis.

Viscount Hinchinbrooke told Parliament last night it happened at the time of the British-French invasion of Egypt. He also said he understood President Eisenhower used "cavalry barracks language" to Sir Anthony Eden, then Britain's prime minister, in a transatlantic telephone conversation at that time.

"I have never known the President to use such language," Hagerty said at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters when asked for comment.

Air Force Will Deploy Planes More Widely

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Air Force is planning to deploy its aircraft more widely through the country "so that a potential attacker could never hope to destroy enough of our bombers to prevent our decisive retaliation."

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force vice chief of staff, said this today, explaining that the Strategic Air Command's B47 and B52 all-jet bombers and its B36 propeller-driven long-range bombers "are now concentrated on too few, highly crowded bases."

He also said in a speech prepared for an Air Force Assn. jet age conference that air defense squadrons "are often wedged in as a tenant" at already busy airfields.

"We want to make an attacker's job harder," White said.

"We want to make it apparent that our defending forces and our retaliatory forces cannot be knocked out even with the great force the potential aggressor has today."

"To accomplish this we intend to spread out these combat forces. For example, we will divide the striking force into smaller and more numerous packages."

As one part of this plan, White said, heavy jet bomber wings, now being strengthened to 45 planes each will be divided among three bases. Thus, one squadron would remain at a parent base with complete maintenance facilities. Two squadrons would operate from "satellite bases" with limited facilities.

Police Probe Fatal Shooting Of Nurse

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Elaine H. Norfleet, 44-year-old nurse, was found shot to death in her apartment today.

Police said she died about 3 or 4 a.m. from a bullet wound in the head but that more than one shot had been fired. Police said also they were not notified of the death until 6:25 a.m.

Lt. Lawrence A. Hartnett of the homicide squad said there were "some unusual circumstances to be straightened out."

Mrs. Norfleet's husband, Maury F. Norfleet, 44, told police he was awakened by a shot and found his wife in a slumped position on the living room divan, his .32 caliber revolver on the floor at her feet. She was clad in pajamas and a house coat.

Jefferson City, Mo., Has Water Shortage

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 14 (AP)—Even though Jefferson City gets its water supply from the Missouri River, the city ran into a water shortage today.

The Capital City Water Co. asked all residents to limit their water use to bare necessities. It said it had run into pumping difficulties because of the low river level and a heavy concentration of sand at the intake.

Dog Dies In Fire But Saves Eight

CUMBERLAND, R. I., Feb. 14 (AP)—Skipper joined the company of dog heroes today by barking and possibly saving the lives of eight persons.

But the tiny, 3-month-old cocker with the family only two days, died in the fire.

Adelard Archambault, 71, was awakened by Skipper's urgent barking. He ran to open the kitchen door to the cellar, where the seven-room dwelling was ruined.

Raft Reported 1,000 Miles From Goal

VALPARAISO, Chile, Feb. 14 (AP)—The bamboo raft Tahiti Hui today was reported about 1,000 miles off Chile in its attempt to sail from Tahiti to this country.

Chilean naval officials said a radio message received from Eric de Bisschop, 63-year-old French explorer in charge of the raft, said he and his crew of four were in good health. Aboard the raft are two Frenchmen, a Chilean, and a Tahitian.

The Tahiti Hui is 40 feet long, 14 feet wide, and has two sails. With the aid of ocean currents and the sails, Bisschop left Tahiti in November for South America. He plans a return voyage to Tahiti.

TWIN TRACTION...
a Studebaker-Packard FIRST
so good other cars will copy it

WHAT IS IT? Twin-Traction Differential gives you new pavement-gripping traction and new safe control impossible with conventional differentials. The secret lies in the fact that the Twin-Traction Differential delivers the major part of the engine's power to the rear wheel with the best traction—instead of the wheel with the poorest traction (as in a conventional differential). The result—roadability that's better in six important ways:

1. In ice, snow or mud, Twin Traction gets you out of spots where cars with conventional differentials would "spin their wheels."
2. In highway driving, it protects against skids that might otherwise occur when one rear wheel hits a slippery spot.
3. On sharp turns, it improves roadability by applying the major driving force to the inside rear wheel. This also tends to compensate for over-steering.
4. On rough or washboard roads, it reduces the rear-end bounce, sideway or swerve which results from a fast-spinning wheel suddenly hitting the pavement again.
5. When one rear wheel goes off the pavement onto a soft shoulder, Twin Traction directs the driving force to the other rear wheel, assuring safe, positive control.
6. In ordinary driving, Twin Traction cuts tire wear by assuring more positive traction.

Test it, yourself, today. See your

Contractor Claiming

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Court of Appeals was asked today to review the beauty parlor chat-ter of two women.

Attorneys for Joseph F. Hughes and Co. of Baltimore asked for a new trial in a $37,000 judgment case on grounds one of the women jurors discussed the case with a friend during the course of the trial.

The case was one in which Wil-iam G. Stockhausen, electrical subcontractor on the Baltimore Memorial Stadium construction project, was awarded $37,362.07 from Hughes, general contractor on the job.

Stockhausen said the money was due on a contract with Hughes, but the general contractor coun-tered that he had suffered damage because of delay in completion of the electrical work and "various deficiencies in the job done."

The trial, conducted in Balti-more common pleas court last June, was recessed each afternoon and over one weekend.

Hughes claimed that one of the jurors, Mrs. Bernice Fisher, dis-cussed the case with a customer on Saturday, June 16, while the trial was in progress. His motions for a mistrial in the lower court were denied.

Mrs. Fisher said she mentioned to the customer, Mrs. Lillian Marling, that she was on jury duty but did not discuss the nature of the case.

Attorneys for Stockhausen told the high court that the conversation between the juror and her beauty parlor customer "was planned by (Hughes) to obstruct justice and secure a mistrial."

The appeals court took the case under advisement.

airline To Get F27s Next Year

HAGERSTOWN, Feb. 14 (AP)—Three Fairchild F27 prop-jet transports, ordered by Northern Consolidated Airlines of Fair-banks, Alaska, will be delivered next year, Fairchild Aircraft officials reported today.

The basic list price for the plane is $340,000.

Fairchild said the F27s to be delivered to Northern Consolidated will be modified to provide a mov-able forward bulkhead (partition) to permit a variety in the passen-ger and freight load carried.

Additionally, the planes will have a large forward cargo door, 77x84 inches, to permit simul-taneous loading of passengers and freight.

At the contract signing last Dec. 18, Northern Consolidated's presi-dent, Raymond I. Petersen, said that "the F27, with its 280-mile an hour speed, its pressurization, short airfield capability and great variety of passenger freight loads will increase our airlift capabilities substantially and enable us to pro-vide vastly improved service."

The airlines presently uses a fleet of 15 twin-engine aircraft to serve its Alaskan routes.

Foresters Of Five States Meet Today

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14 (AP)—For-esters from Maryland, Pennsylva-nia, West Virginia, New Jersey, and Delaware will discuss new methods of their profession here tomorrow and Saturday.

Gov. McKeldin will speak to the Allegheny section of the Society of American Foresters tomorrow morning.

Dr. William C. Bramble of Bal-timore is chairman of the group and Henry E. Stasiek of Bel Air is arranging the program.

Labrador's puffins, rivaling in dependability the cliff swallows of San Juan Capistrano in Cali-fornia, leave their summer and winter haunts on definite dates and arrive at their destinations with equal predictability.

Man Admits He Stole Riot Gun To Use On Cop

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Feb. 14 (AP)—Oscar Darlington, Jr., last night admitted stealing a police riot gun which, companions testified, he intended to use on State Trooper J. E. Durst.

Darlington, in his 20s, was or-dered held in $1,000 bail for grand jury action after pleading guilty to grand larceny before Justice of the Peace Merle Alger.

Two persons who identified themselves as companions of Dar-lington said Darlington had told them he wanted the gun to use on Trooper Durst. Darlington, they said, blamed Durst for the death of his brother, Gardner Darling-ton, who was shot in a gun battle with police in August, 1954.

Records showed that Gardner Darlington's wife called police, re-ported that he threatened her, and that he threatened to surren-der his gun. A shooting scrape fol-lowed between him and town and state police, and he was killed.

At last night's hearing, Chief of Police Ephraim Day said the riot gun and a supply of ammunition was stolen from a suitcase in the rear of the police station early yesterday morning.

Day said Darlington had been loitering around headquarters and was questioned. The gun and am-munition were found in the trunk of his car.

Day said he would talk to two companions of Darlington before deciding if additional charges would be preferred against him.

The first aircraft flight in the British Empire took place on the frozen waters of Baddeck Bay, Nova Scotia, February 23, 1909.

The plane, the Silver Dart, was built by the Aerial Experiment as-sociation pioneered by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. With an en-gine that sometimes delivered only eight horsepower, the plane flew that day for half a mile.

CAB Group To Visit Fairchild Co. Plant

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Four members of the Civil Aeronautics Board and 21 staff assistants plan to visit the Fairchild Aircraft Di- vision at Hagerstown, Md., tomor- row.

actress, holds a unique brace-let and key chain capsule. Within the containers are a few drops of water from the sacred River Jordan, which flows between the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea, now part of the Israel-Jordan border. The capsules are be- ing made in Cleveland.

Chairman James R. Durfee ex- plained the inspection of the plant would follow up the board's "jet aircraft orientation" visit last fall to the Pacific Coast plants of the Boeing, Lockheed, Douglas and Convair companies.

Fairchild is planning to produce a four-engine jet executive aircraft and a two-engine jet-and-propeller airliner.

Durfee said the visit was part of the CAB's "intensive prepara- tion to meet the safety and eco- nomic regulatory problems of the commercial jet transportation era which will begin in less than two years."

The CAB group will leave Wash- ington National Airport (Butler Av- iation Terminal) in Fairchild Com- pany planes at 8:30 a. m. Friday, and will start the return flight from Hagerstown about 2:15 p. m.

Official Designations Of Some Church Groups Misleading, Do Not Fit Facts

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

What's in a name—or not in it—today causes some hair-splitting and hand-wringing for the churches.

They're often bothered about what they ought to call themselves.

You might think that the matter of a name was a simple thing but it's not.

In fact, some Christian bodies are not precisely what their names imply, and some groups claim names not in their official designations, and some say they're not what their names say they are.

A few examples:

1. The Southern Baptist Convention is not strictly Southern at all. This 8½-million-member religious body has congregations from East Coast to the West and north to Alaska. Some want the name changed to fit facts.
2. The Protestant Episcopal Church is the only major church in the country with "Protestant" in its official name, but many of its three million members dislike being called Protestants. They say they're Catholics.
3. Many other Protestant churches embrace the name Catholic in its general meaning—"universal"—and declare belief in "the Holy Catholic Church" in the Apostles Creed. But they're forthrightly Protestants.

4. The two-million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod might sound like a Missouri institution, but it's actually a nationwide church, the second largest Lutheran body in America, with congregations in every state.
5. For years, most of the 8,000 congregations of another major denomination, the two-member Disciples of Christ, have ignored the name, called themselves simply "Christian" churches. Last fall, the official name was changed to match the usage.
6. Although the name Roman Catholic was started by British Protestants to differentiate from their own claims to being Catholic too, most members of the Catholic Church headed in Rome now accept the name Roman Catholic for purposes of clarity.
7. "Drawing a fine line, some Baptists object to being called Protestants, claiming Baptists existed—notably in the day of John the Baptist—long before the 16th century Protestant Reformation. However, their present church organizations began with that reformation.
8. Although Eastern Orthodox churches historically have deemed themselves Catholic, not subject to Rome, the largest of them in America, the million-member Greek Orthodox Church, last spring advised against calling the church Catholic to prevent confusion with churches joined to Rome.
9. The Societies of Friends have so long been known popularly as "Quakers" that they even use the appellation themselves sometimes. But it's not their name. And originally, it wasn't even friendly.
10. There's a Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and a Presbyterian Church in the U.S. The "A." is the Northern branch.
11. There's no such thing as the "Mormon Church," despite this frequent misnomer. The name is the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. Mormon was an early prophet. The 1½ million members properly may be called Mormons.
12. Three Lutheran denominations planning a merger hesitated, with some misgivings last month, before approving the name "American Lutheran Church" for their united body for fear the "American" might hamper overseas work.

This list of such problems in church nomenclature could be extended indefinitely, and in minute particulars, even raising questions about religious designations on GI dogtags, and government recognition of "major faiths."

"Solar Reflector" Hailed By Russians

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Moscow radio told today of a new Russian solar reflector which can cure human ills and hatch oversize ducks.

The device consists of mirrors mounted on a frame forming a concave surface. The mirrors absorb the sun's destructive rays and concentrate the beneficial infrared rays, the broadcast said.

The latter rays were said to "stimulate the vital activity of the tissues of the human organism and destroy harmful bacteria." The instrument was built by astronomer Vladimir Bukhman.

"Hundreds of patients have been cured with the aid of Bukhman's reflector," the broadcast said, adding:

"Bukhman's experiments in irradiation of duck eggs showed that ducklings developed faster and weighed twice as much after three months."

Azerbaijan Outlaws Wearing Of Daggers

MOSCOW, Feb. 14 (AP)—The government of Soviet Azerbaijan has outlawed manufacture, sale, possession and—most unkindest cut of all—wearing of daggers.

The Worker, a newspaper published at Baku, capital of the Caspian Sea Republic, said dagger owners who fail to obtain special permits are liable to five years in prison.

Azerbaijans long have felt improperly clothed without daggers thrust under their belts. The Soviet authorities consider such practice a link with the "decadent past."

Pays For Stolen Tie

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Feb. 14 (AP)—The old man asked a Canadian National Railways clerk

how much a railroad tie cost. The puzzled clerk did some phoning and came up with the answer—$4.24.

The old man put $4.24 on the counter and said: "I stole a railroad tie in Demaine, Sask., in 1931. It has been bothering me ever since. Now my conscience is clear."

Bill To Fix Fixers

MANILA, Feb. 14 (AP)—Rep. Francisco Perefeto has introduced a bill to fix the fixers who try to get Philippine government business by bribery.

His solution: the briber "shall be punished by branding or marking on his or her forehead the letter 'F' or by carrying in front and at the back a placard bearing the phrase 'I am a fixer.'"

Jackboots Silenced

BONN, Feb. 14 (AP)—West German army jackboots have gone democratic.

They look like the old Nazi goose-step boots but are not as noisy.

Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss told reporters with a smile the new boots are democratic because "there will be no stamping of hobnails or clucking of heels in these." They have rubber soles.

Shanghai-Born Youth Enlists In Air Force

Board Chairman Denies Claim By Senator

The president of the Board of Garrett County Commissioners yesterday denied accusations made against him by that county's state senator in a statement Wednesday in Annapolis.

Harvey D. Swartzentruber, said yesterday in Oakland, that the records speak for themselves in commenting on the remarks of State Senator Clifford Friend.

Sen. Friend issued a statement Wednesday shortly before a Senate-House conference committee on the audit of Garrett county's financial records.

He declared that Swartzentruber and another county commissioner, A. C. Brenneman, used their own equipment at the county quarry.

Swartzentruber said yesterday that "he doesn't own a cent's worth of machinery."

Sen. Friend in his statement also said:

"Mr. Brenneman and Mr. Swartzentruber brought their case down here to the Court of Appeals where I believe the hearing on the appeal will be this week."

To this Swartzentruber said that he has no case in Annapolis at the Court of Appeals.

Friend's statement apparently referred to the case of Irvin Roth versus Aubrey C. Brenneman, which resulted in an injunction stopping the Board of Garrett County Commissioners from dealing with the quarry work of A. C. Brenneman and Son.

In the hearing before the Court of Appeals on Tuesday, Brenneman's attorneys, William A. Gunter and Walter Dawson, argued that when Brenneman became county commissioner the drilling business was turned over to his son.

However, Sen. Friend won a preliminary victory Wednesday in his fight for an audit of Garrett County finances back to 1954.

The Senate-House conference committee voted in favor of an amendment to a House bill calling for regular audits by a certified public accountant of county books in the future.

The vote came shortly after Friend issued a statement saying a search of county records showed no invoices for certain purchases reported for 1954.

The amendment, sponsored by Friend, would also require the audits to date back to 1954. After this was approved by the Senate,

"A courteous driver would give a lady the right of way!"

South End Boy Hurt Returning From School

A 13-year-old local boy was admitted to Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon after being injured while returning from school.

Hospital attaches said John Atkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson, 213 Elder Street, sustained injuries to his left elbow in the accident.

The boy was returning from Pennsylvania Avenue School when he was pushed by another youngster and fell on the street, attaches said.

Lonaconing Woman Injures Arm In Fall

Mrs. Bessie Main, 59, wife of James Main, Lonaconing, was admitted to Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon after being injured in a fall.

Hospital attaches said the woman sustained injuries to her left arm when she fell down a flight of steps at the doctor's office.

India Wars On Malaria

NEW DELHI, Feb. 14 (AP)—The United States has just given India 6 1/2 million dollars for a malaria control program.

The House refused to go along.

Del. Edwards (R-Garrett), one of the sponsors of the bill in its original form, said he felt no useful purpose would be served by the amendment. The measure, he added, was intended to promote economy and efficiency in future county operations.

The Senate-House conference group was set up to recommend a settlement after the Senate refused to recede from its position of approving the amendment.

Friend said the vote was 4-2 in favor recommending House adoption of his amendment instead of any compromise. He said conference committee members favoring this approach included himself, Sens. Monroe (R-Charles) and Phipps (D-Anne Arundel), and Del. Glatfely (R-Garrett). Those opposed were Edwards and the other county delegate, Del. Ashby (R-Garrett).

Allegany Co. Teacher Unit Seeks Less Clerical Work

The results of a survey taken among Allegany County teachers reveal that they want relief from clerical work, some free time at noon and a sick leave pay adjustment.

Edward A. Meconi, president of the Allegany County Teachers Association which met Wednesday in West Side School, said the results of the survey made by the association's welfare committee were announced by the chairman, John Metzger.

The survey shows that teachers indicated that less time for the many clerical requirements have expended all their sick leave pay allotment.

The current deduction, Metzger told the association, is 1/184th from the annual salary, or a day's pay.

The association also drafted two amendments to the constitution and bylaws to be voted on at the next meeting. One concerns adding an ethics committee to the association, and also to raise the annual dues.

A progress report on bills in the General Assembly to raise teachers salaries and also to eliminate inequities in the teachers pension plan was made by Miss Mary Murray, legislative chairman.

Meconi said the association reaffirmed its earlier stand in backing the two measures.

William Donahue, chairman of the membership committee, reported that 91 per cent of Allegany County teachers belong to the Maryland State Teachers Association, and 99 per cent to the Allegany County Teachers Association.

The association unanimously went on record as supporting the proposal of the Cumberland Section of the American Chemical Society for a four-year liberal arts college in Western Maryland.

Largest known forest fire was the one which swept over three million acres and caused the loss of 160 lives in Maine and New Brunswick in 1825.

Trio Being Held In Bond Default

Three local men were committed to the Allegany County Jail yesterday in default of $1,000 each on charges of burglary.

The trio, Donald Moore and James and John Parsons, were taken before Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick yesterday by the State's Attorney office.

The state played a jury trial, and Magistrate Dick set bond at $1,000 each, pending action of the April term of Circuit Court.

The three were involved in a series of robberies in the area last weekend.

Driver Posts $1,000 Bond

The Hyattsville driver of the automobile which struck and critically injured a 64-year-old Frostburg woman Wednesday night, yesterday posted $1,000 bond in Trial Magistrates Court here on a state motor vehicle charge.

William Lamar was questioned yesterday in the State's Attorney's office and explained he did not see Mrs. Idella Stevens in time to avoid hitting her. He posted the bond pending the outcome of the victim's severe injuries and was released to return to his home.

Attendants at Miners Hospital in Frostburg said Mrs. Stevens, who resides at 154 Green Street in Frostburg, suffered a fractured skull, fractures of both arms and legs and internal injuries. Her condition was listed as "unchanged" late last night.

State Trooper Joseph Stakem, who investigated, said Mrs. Stevens was struck by the automobile apparently as she was leaving her home on State Route 36.

The trooper said Lamar was visiting friends in Frostburg and had just left their residence for a trip to a Frostburg store when the mishap occurred.

Lamar is reported to have pulled out of Glenn Street onto Route 36, and after traveling approximately 190 feet, hit the woman. Trooper Stakem added indications were the car was not traveling at a high rate of speed.

Found Guilty Of Bigamy

A Pennsylvania man, tried yesterday afternoon in Circuit Court on a charge of bigamy in Allegany County, was handed a five-year suspended sentence in the Maryland House of Correction by Chief Judge George Henderson.

He is Daniel Brehm, 25, a construction worker for U. S. Steel at Johnstown, Pa. In handing down his decision, Judge Henderson suspended the five-year term on the condition that Brehm be of good behaviour, report regularly to proper authorities and arrange to have a retirement check from the Pennsylvania State Department of Roads (of which he was a former employee) turned over to his first wife which would be applied to joint bills incurred by her and Mr. Brehm.

Judge Henderson pointed out he must also give his weekly check to his wife and she is to allow him $20 for living expenses. And if he is unable to work at any time he must be excused by the parole authorities.

Brehm, who was represented by Thomas B. Finan, was charged with marrying Ada Viola Meyers, of Salisbury, in Cumberland on New Year's Day while still married to Mrs. Dorothy Ann (Koonz) Brehm, of Hyasota, Pa.

After yesterday's trial Brehm was taken to the county jail here until arrangements can be made with David Steele, probation officer of Allegany County, James S. Getty, assistant state's attorney prosecuted the case.

Premium Pay

$1,800 a year instead of $15 a day when court is in session.

He said the bill, which passed the House recently, makes the salary provision retroactive to last November's constitutional amendment.

He will also take to the floor of the Senate today with a favorable report his Senate Bill 271. It would empower the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to regulate junk yards, trailer camps and public dumps.

Yesterday See's SB 311 received a favorable report and went to its third reading.

Sponsors Repealers

It would repeal a section of the state law relating to the boundary line between Allegany and Garrett counties.

Eight other "repealer" bills have received favorable reports from Sen. See.

He said the bills merely repeal obsolete laws affecting Allegany County, adding that all have been checked.

They are SB 312, repealing an obsolete reference to the health officer; SB 313, jury pay; SB 314, Orphans Court judges' pay; SB 320, school salaries; SB 321, normal school teachers' pay; SB 322, night schools, and SB 324, county surveyor.

Hyndman Man Injured

Luther Chaney, 39, Hyndman, Pa., was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday evening with a fractured ankle. He was injured when a car he was trying to overturn in a junk yard slipped, striking his leg.

Remember 'Maine' 59 Years Later

Great maritime disasters long have attracted the imagination and attention of the public as has no other type of tragedy. Scarcely a person living who followed newspaper accounts of the Titanic, the Lusitania, the Maine or the Andrea Doria, or who read later stories concerning their sinkings, will ever forget those names.

How many of these people could name as many cities which have suffered as great losses from fire, earthquake, explosion or hurricane?

Perhaps it is the romantic flavor associated with the life of a seaman or the picture of a man-made giant losing the battle with an ocean which sparks such unrelated emotions as fear, patriotism and anger in the hearts of men as they read of a sea disaster.

Whatever the reasons for universal interest in this type of calamity, on at least one occasion a sunken ship brought the United States to war.

Today, the battle cry, "Remember the Maine," is 59 years old. This U. S. battleship was sunk in the Havana, Cuba, harbor, by unknown persons, with a loss of more than 260 lives, and it was one of the main factors which led to the Spanish-American war.

One may wonder whether "Remember Pearl Harbor" will be as easily recalled in the year 2000 as "Remember the Maine" is today.

These Days

United Europe

One of the consequences of the American policy over Suez is the rapid development in Western Europe for a free trade market in Europe. This could be a forerunner of a Western European economic and political alliance outside of NATO and therefore without the overlordship of the United States. As the Western Europeans wonder whether they have not been abandoned by the United States in favor of the Arabs or perhaps the Afro-Asian states, the Western Europeans, an area of about 200,000,000 people, are reconsidering their position with a clearer view as to their own future.

To what degree this can affect American trade requires detailed study. Many of the larger American exporters have made huge capital investments in European countries, maintaining business establishments in such countries which are organized under native law and which, in some instances, do not even bring their profits back to the United States because of tax situations and currency blocks. Such American-owned companies would participate in a free European market as European companies anyhow. They employ European labor and their commodities are therefore priced for European markets and when they export to the United States, their products come in as European goods, priced competitively.

On the economic side, the European free market is sound and has long been advocated and has had many supporters in the United States who recognize in the artificial trade barriers in the small European countries a menace to development. The Monetary and Economic Conference held in London in 1933 considered the problems that arise from barriers and might have done something so constructive that World War II might have been averted. But Franklin D. Roosevelt torpedoed that conference to the chagrin of his Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, and the rest of the world. From the standpoint of the restoration of the political independence of Europe, the European Union is essential because only when goods can pass from one European country to another and when currencies are convertible can Western Europe truly become independent of the United States.

From the American standpoint, it can truthfully be said that the United States has taxed its citizens excessively to aid its European allies and that it has helped to restore West Germany to a position of economic importance. From a European standpoint, the dependence has become burdensome to the spirit of the people as dependence always is both burdensome and humiliating. Some European countries have been quicker to recover than others; West Germany, for instance, has been quicker than France.

The British have had a difficult time because their preferred market has been the United States where American dollars would become available but where British goods were bound to receive buyers' resistance in competition with American goods. This might have been carried to a point of danger, culminating in a "Buy American" campaign. The British have lost many of the markets in Asia which they had been cultivating for centuries and they cannot altogether depend upon the dominions which are developing competitively, particularly Canada. The only alternative left is the European Free Market which seems logical and which undoubtedly would benefit all the countries of Western Europe.

On the political side, the development could include an element of danger for the United States because it could mean a European political policy antagonistic to whatever policies are developed by the United States. It is no secret that during the first Eisenhower Administration, John Foster Dulles was surprisingly unpopular in nearly all European countries, whereas President Eisenhower was popular, almost to heroic proportions.

This is not now true. Eisenhower and Dulles are lumped together as the villains in Europe's most tragic defeat in many centuries. It does not matter which side regards itself as right in the Suez situation; each side always assumes that it is right. But Great Britain and France regard themselves as having been defeated by Eisenhower and most of Europe agrees with them. Politically, therefore, it is to be expected that most European countries will adopt a policy which, while it might be cooperative with the United States, will be increasingly independent of it.

The American policy of preferring the Afro-Asian group to the nations of Western Europe has left a mark upon Western European policy and public opinion which cannot readily be erased.

'Holy Mackerel-Here They Come Again'

Party Eloquence On Russia's Western Frontier

KOUSTENAY

In this metropolis of the new Soviet frontier in western Siberia, the presumed sanctum sanctorum is the office of the First Secretary of the Communist Party Committee, Comrade Lazar Ivanovich Popov.

It looks, too, as a sanctum sanctorum ought to look. By Koustenay standards, which are appropriately the standards of Tombstone, Arizona, circa 1880, it is a large and handsome room. The icons of the holy men of Communism are also large and handsome. And so is the desk at which Comrade Popov receives his callers with an expression of stern, unbending purpose.

I went to call on Comrade Popov in order to ask a question that seemed to me centrally important. But it is perhaps better to begin by introducing Comrade Popov and his two colleagues, Second Party Secretary Yefim Andreievich Marosov and Third Party Secretary Aleksandr Vasilevich Shilov.

They are all middle-aged men. They all started their careers in rather humble ways — Comrade Popov was a primary school teacher, for instance. But all three "took up full time party work a long time ago," as they put it. All have followed this specialized career since at least 1940, and none has had any higher technical training beyond that offered in the party schools.

These, then, were the trio to whom I put my question. I had been greatly impressed by the boldness, size and apparent success of the huge Soviet industrial and agricultural enterprises which have been shown me in the course of this Siberian journey. I had been equally impressed by the caliber of the leaders of these enterprises. Such men are, of course, members of the Communist party. But equally, of course, having huge jobs of their own to do, they do not function primarily as Communists any more than the chairman of U. S. Steel functions primarily as a Republican or Walter Reuther functions primarily as a Democrat.

What then was the role of the Party itself in these enormous and technically complex enterprises? Where exactly did Comrades Popov, Marosov and Shilov fit into the grandiose and dramatic pattern of western Siberia's agricultural and industrial development?

"There the role of the Party," replied Comrade Popov, with a powerful didactic scowl, "is the role of leadership. For example, the colossal spaces of our steppe lay waste for centuries, but now they are being plowed. For this purpose, it is necessary among other things to win the struggle to keep moisture in the soil. This is the successful offensive against nature, in which the party leads."

In the beginning was the party. Comrade Popov and his colleagues jointly explained. The party and its junior branch, the Comsomols, had the opening task of organizing the movement of people to work on the new lands and in the new industries. "Once again," said Comrade Shilov, pride shining through his spectacles, "the role of the party and its members was the role of leadership in accomplishing this great task. The leading role was immense."

SEC Is Sitting Complacently On Keg Of Wall Street's Financial Dynamite

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—With ex-President Hoover warning that our present economy has some of the earmarks of the depression that hit his administration, and with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey talking about a possible depression that would "make your hair curl," this is the time to watch the organization set up to watch the stock market—the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Things have changed around the SEC in the past four years. All you have to do is look at its personnel to understand how much it has changed.

When the SEC was first established under Roosevelt to police the stock market, FDR appointed to it some of the best brains in the nation. It's commissioners included Justice William O. Douglas, now on the Supreme Court; Ferdinand Pecora, later on the New York Supreme Court; Joseph K. Kennedy, later Ambassador to England; the late Judge Jerome Frank of the U. S. Court of Appeals; James Landis, later Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board; Sumner Pike, later on the Atomic Energy Commission; Leon Henderson, later OPA Administrator; Harry McDonald; Ganson Purcell; and others.

In those days, SEC commissioners took the initiative in watching Wall Street. They didn't wait for financial murders to be committed first. They took action to prevent the murders.

Under Eisenhower, however, the SEC started playing brazen, amazing politics when it ignored a lengthy telegram from J. D. Stietenroth, the Secretary of Mississippi Power and Light, a Dixon-Yates subsidiary, warning that the company had filed false figures with the SEC.

The name of the law establishing the SEC is the "truth-in-securities" act, meaning that anyone who sells stock and bonds must file a statement with the SEC and tell the truth.

"I desire to withdraw each and every financial figure and any and all data which are included in the registration statements," Stietenroth telegraphed.

He referred to the proposed stock flotation of Middle South Utilities and Mississippi Power and Light, part of the Dixon-Yates combine.

Yet, despite this warning from a high official of the combine, the SEC OK'd the stock flotation next day. Previous SEC commissioners would have held extensive hearings. But the new SEC, unworried about protecting the investing public, didn't wait a minute.

Meanwhile, likeable, inexperienced, young J. Sinclair Armstrong, chairman of the SEC, is sitting on several kegs of financial dynamite, but doesn't seem to know it.

Surprise Dinner Partners

At a dinner given in honor of the Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren the other night, a lady who doesn't always approve of everything in this column but tolerates living with its author, found herself seated beside the Attorney General, Herbert Brownell. Mrs. P. is always suffering from things she finds written in her husband's newspaper column over which she has no control. But she is usually equal to the occasion. In this case she said:

"Washington is never dull, Mr. Brownell. When you go out to dinner in New York you can always be sure exactly what is going to happen. You sit down beside Mrs. Rumplemeyer or Mrs. L'Escargot and they'll tell you all about the weather and their clubs and their children."

"But in Washington you never

A recent addition to the innumerable eavesdropping devices now in use is a tiny transmitter that can be concealed in an apartment or hotel room. Those using this device then can sit in an automobile parked as far as half a block away and hear everything said in the aforementioned room. They could also record it. So, perhaps all of us should write out everything of a secret nature we say to our wives, employees or friends. Better still we should all learn the sign language.

HORSES AND WOMEN

There has recently been a marked improvement in the appearance of the hats worn by our countrywomen. Must be that more women are asking their husbands' opinions of hats before deciding to buy. While men are not familiar with the technical terms of the millinery trade they usually have an excellent sense of proportion. They can, for example, judge whether a hat fits the wearer's face. Also whether it is the right style for her height and weight. Anyway, that style of wearing a little hat flat on the head seems to have been abandoned. A good thing too. That style made even an attractive, intelligent woman look like a bad case of arrested development.

Diversions Oil Probe

There's some interesting backstage wire-pulling behind the fact that two separate Senate committees are investigating oil. It points toward the door of potent, personable, oil-conscious Lyndon Johnson, Senator from oil-rich Texas.

Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming began investigating oil last summer. An experienced, relentless trust-buster, O'Mahoney can be depended on to do a good job. Backstopping him and working with him as new chairman of the Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee is Estes Kefauver, another uncompromising trust-buster. Their committee asked for $300,000 to carry on a comprehensive probe of all monopoly — including oil — to have the Rules Committee scale this down to $225,000.

When the matter came up on the Senate floor, the Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee asked for an additional $25,000. Instead of getting it, $50,000 — twice that much — was dropped out of clear Senate skies into the lap of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee for a rival probe of oil.

It was an astute diversionary tactic. For this committee is headed by Washington's charming, easygoing Sen. Warren Magnuson. Serving on the Commerce Committee with him are Texas' new Senator, William Blakely, whom Johnson expressly put on this committee; also the following Senators who voted with the big natural gas boys last year: Pastore (R.I.), Monroney (Okla.), Snathers (Fla.), Thurmond (S. C.), all Democrats; and Bricker (Ohio), Schaeffer (Kans.), Butler (Md.), Payne (Me.), and Cotton (N.H.), all Republicans.

With this extraordinary lineup of pro-gas-oil Senators doing the investigating on the Commerce Committee, the oil lobby can figure that the two-sided probe of the anti-monopoly committee will be either counteracted or blocked out.

For Best Health, Follow Your Doctor's Advice

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The medical profession may never live down the adage, "Do as I say and not as I do." This is to be expected in any advisory profession. But an obese medico can hardly expect a patient to follow his advice about reducing. The same situation exists with the "no smoking" recommendation if the medico's ash tray is full of butts and he lights a cigaret at the end of the consultation.

Dr. Roger I. Lee, who is portly, defends the obese physician in his book, "The Happy Life of a Doctor."

"I do not mind a young woman telling me I have a nerve to advise her to lose weight, and I ought to look in the mirror. I have a special talk for such young women. I tell them I have given up all notions of being an Apollo, a Hercules, a Samson, a prize fighter, or a mile runner. My family life is wonderfully happy, so I would not want to be too attractive to the fair sex. But with young women it is different. I do not have to go any further. They become as docile as a pussycat."

The smoker physician is aware of the pitfalls of tobacco, yet either he is not afraid of cancer or lacks will power. But when he recommends abstinence he usually means it. In this respect he is not a crank who is addicted to don'ts and can't's. He tells the patient: "You have a specific condition that will not improve unless you stop."

During the last decade, physicians have become more lenient about restrictions in general. Various diseases no longer are mysterious, hence there is no need to grasp at a straw for relief. Furthermore, numerous tests are available to determine the effects of tobacco, exercise, and diet upon the disturbance in question.

But sometimes, in attempting to prolong life, we neglect to promote health. The same occurs when the treatment becomes worse than the disease. Lack of exercise, a strict diet, or a change in occupation may create an unwholesome situation both mentally and physically. This takes the joy out of living.

The majority of physicians are aware of these aspects of the care of the ill and will not recommend multitudinous taboos unless they are absolutely necessary and the results justify the limitations.

"SHAWM: An old-fashioned wind instrument long since-passed out of common use."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:

I would like to call your attention to two articles in this paper as of Sat., Feb. 9, 1957. One, because a man could not support two homes with the wages he was getting, although willing to work at that job, (he) could not get his unemployment money. Second, on the same page of that copy, the Maryland Immigration Bureau says a refugee coming here does not have to take a job he does not like. If that is the case he can turn down any and all jobs offered him after he works them for a while. But in the meantime who is going to keep said refugees, the Immigration Board, the Unemployment Board, or the taxpayer? Everyone knows the answer to that one. I think it is a raw deal on the American citizen where he has to take a job regardless of conditions. So, hoping it is looked into by the proper authorities and the American Citizen given priority, I remain

Moorefield CAP To Join In Search, Rescue Problem At Martinsburg, Sunday

The Moorefield squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will participate in a search and rescue problem Sunday near Martinsburg, according to William C. Goetz, Moorefield Squadron Commander.

A conference held Sunday set up the preliminary plans with CAP Major C. W. Flick and CAP Major C. W. Bennett. Flick is group commander who will be in charge of the exercise.

The search and rescue mission or SARCAP, is a simulated rescue mission for persons or objects, such as downed aircraft, placed within a reasonable distance of the base airport with aircraft teams and ground rescue teams making a systematic search over assigned areas and effecting the rescue.

Each aircraft carries a pilot and observer who cover designated areas on assigned grids. Ground teams in marked cars are directed to the spot by the aerial teams.

The SARCAP exercises are held periodically by the CAP and the next exercise will be held in Moorefield. In the event of inclement weather the search will be postponed until February 24.

Goetz and Cadet Richard Southery attended the conference. Participating in the exercise will be 15 members, three aircraft and three mobile units from Moorefield. A meeting of the senior members participating in the search will be held at Goetz' home Saturday night when the announcement alerting the squadron will be made over the CAP radio network. The briefing for the exercise will be held Sunday morning at Martinsburg.

West Virginia Civil Service Bill Passes

Governor's Veto Is Possibility

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 14 —With surprising speed after dilly-dallying all week, the Senate today passed, by another straight party vote, the controversial civil service bill and sent it to Gov. Cecil Underwood.

There was expectation that the governor might veto it, but Democrats of both houses have claimed sufficient strength to muster the majority needed to pass it again over gubernatorial objections.

It was necessary today for the Senate to adopt 16 amendments the House had made — also by straight margins—since the measure first was passed by the Senate.

Vocal minority objection to the amendments as they machine-gunned through the Senate ranged from loud to almost a whisper. Only one amendment was adopted unanimously.

That was the House action removing uniformed members of the State Police from civil service coverage. The Senate earlier had written in coverage for the police personnel, although some question had been raised as to whether the act might conflict with laws dealing with police rank.

In possibly a more far-reaching but overshadowed step today, the Senate passed unanimously a measure to set up a new Centralized Department of Finance and Administration in the state government.

Before passing the bill and sending it to the House, the Senate approved an amendment offered from the floor by Majority Leader Martin (D-Berkeley) designed to remove a conflict between it and the civil service measure.

Physician To Report Butler Will Need Facial Surgery

KEYSER—A statement from a local physician which will point out the urgent need of Howard Butler, 55-year-old Piedmont man who is charged with murder, to undergo facial surgery in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, will be presented at a hearing today before Judge Ernest M. See.

Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland lawyer who is representing Butler together with Joseph A. Blundon of Keyser, said the doctor's statement will recommend that Butler be released on bond in order that he can receive treatment by a Dr. R. W. Johnson, a maxillo-facial surgeon at Johns Hopkins.

The surgery, in the professional opinion of the local physician, should be done immediately, Ryan said, adding that the doctor explained such work could be done in only a few large medical centers in the country—Johns Hopkins being one.

The statement, Ryan said, will point out that work on the soft tissues and scarred surfaces of Butler's face can be done here, but carries the recommendation that the correction of the loss of part of the jaw bone be done by means of a bone graft. Such work can be done, the statement points out, only where there is a bone bank or a maxillo-facial surgeon can use the metal vitallium.

Ryan also said that Butler claims the death of Mrs. Velma Sharon, 45, also of Piedmont, on the night of December 30 in his apartment, was the result of an accident.

Butler, according to Ryan, claims he and the deceased were friends of many years and that marriage had been contemplated.

In answer to criticism by Judge See earlier this week on the procedure followed in the case, Ryan pointed out that Butler's earlier release had followed an agreement with Mineral County authorities for his posting bond in order that he could go to Baltimore for the required surgery.

The arrangements for the operation had been completed by the local physician, and Butler was waiting at his home until time to report to the Baltimore institution.

CONSTIPATED? New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel, so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONAD, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAD's great moisturiz-ing capacity, plus COLONAD's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAD is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAD neither gags, bloats nor grips; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAD exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAD, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

Pendleton County Boy Has Rare Blood Disease

Believed Victim Of Fanconi Anemia

FRANKLIN, W. Va. — Eight-year-old Dale Long, one of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Long of Onego (Pendleton County), is a patient at Children's Hospital, Pittsburgh, suffering from a rare blood disease.

His case is to be studied by Dr. Paul Gaffney, one of the country's foremost hematologists who is a member of the faculty at the University of Pittsburgh's Medical School.

The youngster who has been hospitalized given 46 pints of blood in more than 100 transfusions, was accompanied by his mother to down the hospital corridor.

"Mommy, why do I have to leave here?" was little Ronnie's only remark as his mother helped a nurse ready him for his Pittsburgh journey, and told him of plans "to see a very important doctor who may help you get well someday."

Under Normal Height
Only 39 inches tall, Ronnie has failed to grow to the normal height of an eight-year-old which is characteristic of the blood malady, said the attending physician. He suffers from frequent internal hemorrhages which necessitate immediate blood transfusions.

"Our Ronnie is an active and otherwise normal youngster, but the minute he gets bumped the bleeding starts," said his mother, as she explained that Ronnie has been hospitalized for the past three months, and that last summer he spent from April until July in a hospital.

"He hasn't been able to attend school, and he's been in and out of hospitals so much," said the

Fruit Pies For Every Holiday

February, our shortest month, is short on days but long on holidays. It takes some thinking to decide on appropriate holiday desserts, but frozen individual fruit pies can be your easy solution. For instance, on Valentine's Day or Washington's Birthday, cut a pint of ice cream into slices.

Then cut each slice with a cookie cutter to make a hatchet for Washington's Birthday, or a heart for Valentine's Day. Place atop hot baked fruit pies; sprinkle with multicolored candy decorations and serve quickly!

A lovely dinner combination is green noodles in tomato or shrimp sauce. It not only tastes good but it has eye appeal.

Gelatin Jerez

Gelatins and custards are satisfying light desserts after hearty meals, and their flavors are always improved if you add one or two tablespoons of Spanish sherry—a nutty amontillado type or a rich oloroso—while the gelatin is cooling. The sherry blends and brings out the flavors of whatever fruits you add to the gelatin.

Historic Cake Makes Dough For Future

By FRANCIS LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Helen Duprey Bullock has found a cake of the past can make dough for the future. Her discovery is paying off in funds for the upkeep and restoration of eight of America's historic shrines.

Mrs. Bullock is a historian with a cooking hobby that has made her an expert on what the early American housewife did in the kitchen. A Californian, she learned to cook by watching her French grandmother.

Cooking is a matter of experimenting, tasting and inspiration to Mrs. Bullock. So she was right at home when it came time for the payoff adventure in cookery. It all started while Mrs. Bullock was poring over the records, books, personal histories and letters of the onetime residents of historic Williamsburg, Va., as an archivist for the restoration project of that early American community.

Historic Recipes

In the 10 years she spent in Williamsburg, from 1929 to 1939, Mrs. Bullock kept saving the old recipes she came across. In her leisure time, she tested them. Before long, she had quite a collection of historic recipes, all of which she had painstakingly traced back to their original owners through documents that came into her hands.

Historic Williamsburg was the place to do it, too—for there the first cookbook was published in America in 1742.

With Mrs. Bullock's collection at hand, it was only logical that the restoration of Williamsburg should include a cookbook as well. So 500 Virginia recipes collected by Mrs. Bullock became "The Williamsburg Art of Cookery, or CAKE BAKER FROM WAY BACK... Mrs. Helen Duprey Bullock holds famous cake which has made a fortune for historic shrines.

Accomplished Gentlewoman's Companion." It was patterned after that first Williamsburg cookbook with favorite Virginia recipes compiled "from books known to be used in Virginia households."

Mrs. Bullock, a blue-eyed, round faced woman of short but ample build, thus gained widening fame as a recipe authority. Cooking Pays Off

When a nationally known company got the idea of making packaged cake mixes from historic recipes, they went to Mrs. Bullock, now historian of the National Trust for Historic Preservation in Washington.

She produced the recipes, carefully authenticated, for the famous pound cake served at Thomas Jefferson's Monticello, Mrs. James Monroe's white cake, Mrs. Abraham Lincoln's yellow cake, plus about 12 other recipes associated with historic sites.

Mrs. Bullock assisted in the long, careful process of getting these recipes into shape to fit in a package and come out with precise results—even though she had been tabbed by the manufacturers as "an historian and completely impractical."

Sent the first sample to try out herself, Mrs. Bullock recalls the cake mix makers warned her to stick to directions, "don't add rosewater" or anything else.

The mixes were successful and royalties from their sales have been paid since 1955 to the historical places with which they are associated.

Benefiting so far are: Monticello; the James Monroe law office in Fredericksburg, Va.; the Abe Lincoln home, Springfield, Ill.; Sagamore Hill, the Theodore Roosevelt home at Oyster Bay, L. I.; the Juliette Gordon Low house, home of the founder of the Girl Scouts in Savannah, Ga.; Woodlawn Plantation, home of Martha Washington's granddaughter, near Mount Vernon, Va.; Woodrow Wilson's birthplace at Staunton, Va., and Old Sturbridge Village, Mass.

MARTHA WASHINGTON'S GREAT CAKE (Don't try it unless you have a big crowd coming)

Take 40 eggs, divide the whites from the yolks, beat them to a froth. Start working four pounds of butter to a cream and put the whites of eggs into it a spoonful at a time until it is well worked. Then put four pounds sugar fine powder'd to it in the same manner. Then put in the yolks of corn mixture. Pour into shallow eggs and five pounds of flour and five pounds of fruit. Two hours will bake it. Add one half degrees F.

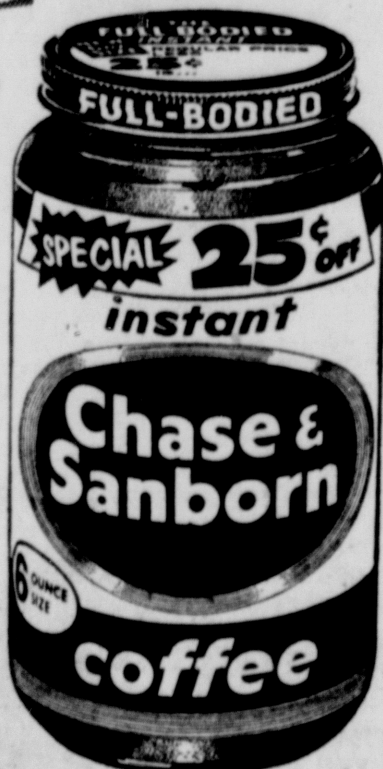

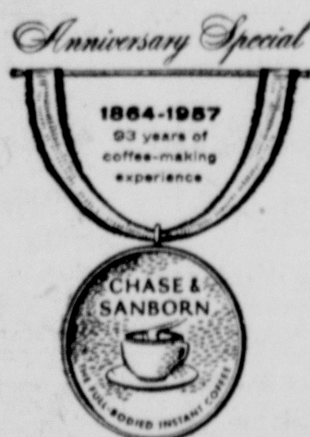

an ounce of mace, one nutmeg, half a pint of wine and some French brandy.

CORN PUDDING

Use one pound can of drained cream style corn. Separate five eggs, add corn to beaten yolks and stir well. Add two tablespoons of melted butter, a quart of scalded milk and one teaspoon salt, stirring continuously. Beat egg whites and gently fold into mixture. Then put in the yolks of corn mixture. Pour into shallow eggs and five pounds of flour and five pounds of fruit. Two hours will bake it. Add one half degrees F.

FLAVOR BREAK

Smoked Egg Dip Flavor

There'll be no end to the praises sung for this unique egg dip which gourmets claim as a hearty favorite. The secret flavor is liquid smoke added to sieved or finely chopped eggs, well-seasoned to make a dip zesty and soft enough for easy scooping up with potato chips. Also try miniature rolls or little breads as a "scoop." The smoked egg dip flavor goes very well with both.

Smoked Egg Dip keeps well and can, therefore, be made a day or two in advance. Keep tightly covered and refrigerated until about a half hour before serving. Bring to room temperature to make for easy "dipping up."

Smoked Egg Dip With Potato Chips And Miniature Buns
12 hard-cooked eggs, riced or sieved
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
1½ teaspoons liquid smoke
1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 drops hot pepper sauce
1 teaspoon salt

Beef Steak De Luxe

1 rib, club, porterhouse or sirloin steak cut 1 to 1½ inches thick
Salt and pepper
Blue cheese
French dressing
Worcestershire sauce

Set oven heat regulator to broil and place steak on rack so that top of the meat is three to three and one-half inches from the source of the heat. Broil until nicely browned on one side, allowing about 10 minutes of total cooking for rare, 14 minutes for medium, and 20 minutes for well-done meat. In the meantime, mash blue cheese with a fork, allowing about half an ounce for each serving. Add a little French dressing, drop by drop, until cheese is soft and of good spreading consistency. Season with a few drops of Worcestershire sauce and blend. When steak is almost done, season with salt and pepper and spread cheese mixture over the top. Heat under broiler until the mixture bubbles; serve at once.

Venetians—the world's top producers of glass containers in the Thirteenth Century—prized their art so highly that glassblowers were confined to the island of Murano under the watchful eye of guards day and night.

chocolate together over hot water. Add sugar to beaten eggs gradually, while beating. Add chocolate mixture to egg mixture and beat hard 1 minute. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Drain cherries thoroughly and add to flour mixture. Then stir into chocolate-egg mixture. Stir in vanilla. Divide batter evenly among 3 greased and floured 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake at 350° F., 35 to 40 minutes. When cool, circle with ribbon of whipped cream. Makes 36 servings. (This recipe is easily divided to make 1 or 2 layers, using ½ cup drained cherries per layer.)

Low Temperature Is Necessity

Lamb should be cooked at a low temperature. Low temperature helps cut down the cooking losses. In addition, lamb is more juicy and also more tender when cooked at a low temperature.

Small cheese jars are excellent containers in which to pack different flavors and colors of ice cream or sherbert for storing in the freezer.

Cold Weather Calls For Soup And Crackers

Soup and crackers offer a go-togetherness. Just heat up a can or two of canned condensed vegetable beef or tomato soup. Accompany with a selection of crisp crackers and a snappy selection of spreads.

February days demand warming foods. "Soup and Crackers" offer the go-togetherness which answers the need for "filling and heating foods."

It's fun to bedeck your table, as Jack Frost sketches on the window panes, with hearty soups, served from your favorite mugs or bowls. Accompany with a palate-full of crisp crackers and a snappy selection of spreads. After the first sip, tingling fingers and chattering teeth will be soothed!

Just heat up a can or two of canned condensed vegetable beef or tomato soup. Mix or match these, or other family favorites, and serve steamy hot with the following spreads. Create new soup combinations, work up new spreads, and each day will bring forth demands for more soup and crackers... they're still going steady!

Apple Pancakes For "Brunch"

Sunday or holiday "brunch," such tasty ingredients as tart, cooking apples, cinnamon and lemon juice satisfy even the biggest appetites in the most healthy way. They are easily and quickly prepared, too.

Pancakes have been a national habit, too, for a long, long time. But apple pancakes are suggested this year as a pleasant change, for this has been a vintage year in American orchards. These appetizing 'cakes made of

Apple Pancakes

(Makes 20 Pancakes)

- 2 eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- dash of allspice
- 2 tart cooking apples, pared, cored, and finely chopped
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar

1/4 cup sugar mixed together with

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Beat egg yolks until light and lemon-colored in 1 quart mixing bowl; stir in milk and oil. Measure flour, sugar, salt and allspice into 4 quart mixing bowl; add egg-milk mixture; beat with rotary beater just until smooth. (Overbeating batter tends to toughen pancakes.) Batter will be fairly thin. Chill 30 minutes. Marinate chopped apples in lemon juice while batter chills. Drain apples; stir into batter. Combine egg whites and cream of tartar in 1 quart mixing bowl; beat until stiff; fold into apple mixture. Heat griddle. Test temperature by sprinkling a few drops of water on it. When drops "skitter" about, temperature is right. Spoon 2 tablespoons batter onto heated griddle to make a 3-inch pancake. Repeat to make 3 or 4 pancakes at each baking. (They should be about 1/4 inch thick.) Bake until tops appear fairly dry and undersides are golden brown; turn; brown on other side. Sprinkle each pancake with cinnamon and sugar; arrange in stacks of 3 or 4 on plate; cover until ready to serve.

Left-over sardines will stay juicy and tender if placed in a glass container, covered with oil and stored in a refrigerator. No odor will escape from the airtight glass container.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Veal Blade Steak

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It comes from the blade section and resembles the blade roast except for the thickness. It contains the blade bone and backbone. Fat is interspersed in the meat and covers the outer surface.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. It is cooked slowly by braising. Veal blade steaks cut 1/4 to 3/4 inch thick require 45 to 60 minutes for cooking. A steak cut less than 1/4 inch thick may be panfried.

The bidding:

North 2 spades Pass
 East Pass 2 no trump 3 hearts
 West Pass 3 no trump Pass
 South 6 no trump Pass

Opening lead: Ten of spades. There may come a point in the bidding when the holder of a strong hand is undecided whether to proceed with the bidding or to double the opposition. If he chooses to double a nonvulnerable opponent where no heavy penalty is in sight, it is tantamount to his expressing the opinion that his side is not strong enough to compete effectively any further.

If he chooses to pass the choice to his partner, it is actually a more aggressive bit of action than a double, for it announces, in effect, that he believes it may be more profitable to go on with the bidding rather than extract a slight toll from the enemy.

The forcing pass may be made for quite another reason, and in today's hand, from an important tournament, some interesting variations occurred.

The first round of bidding was normal. Where West over-called with three hearts, what would you do as North? Instinctively, a vast majority of players would bid three spades.

Actually, that is not the proper procedure, for it is not necessary for North to decide what to do. The opening two bids has obligated both partners to continue until game is reached (or the enemy penalized).

If South happens to have a heart stopper, no trump might be a safer contract than spades. Furthermore, the opposition is vulnerable, and South might have a sound double of the three heart contract. Everything is to be gained and nothing to be lost by the pass.

When South announced the heart stopper, North decided he was reasonably safe for 10 tricks and invited the slam. On the basis of the club suit, South accepted the invitation.

West elected to make the neutral opening of a spade and declarer in running down six tricks in that suit followed by five more in clubs, placed him in the position where he had to blank his king of diamonds. The dummy took the last two tricks with the ace and queen of diamonds.

In some cases a contract of six spades was reached after South had shown the clubs. This permitted West to double the slam, and the lead of dummy's suit immediately defeated the contract.

Scoop out insides of a plump tomato. Then sprinkle the inside with a thin layer of Sterling Salt. Invert tomato shell and drain. Salt draws out the excess moisture, leaves shell firm. Molasses Cookies Pass Family Test

Families are perhaps the most critical judges of Mom's baked products, and rightfully so. New baked products are always given a careful test by the family members but this Molasses Cookie recipe is sure to rate a perfect score from the judges in your home.

To produce delicate textured cakes, flaky pastries and crisp, crunchy cookies is a feather in any homemaker's hat.

Fortunate indeed is the homemaker who uses lard in preparing all her baked products and deep-fat frying recipes.

Lard is not only economical but it also gives the homemaker a helping hand, because lard has the greatest shortening value of any cooking fat.

Molasses Cookies

2 cups sifted enriched flour; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 2 teaspoons soda; 1 teaspoon ginger; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 3/4 cup lard; 1 cup brown sugar; 1 egg, beaten; 1/4 cup molasses.

Sift together flour, salt, soda, ginger, and cinnamon. Cream lard and sugar. Beat in egg and molasses. Add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixtures. Shape into balls, using a rounded tablespoon of dough for each. Dip in granulated sugar. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 12 to 15 minutes. Yield: 4 dozen cookies.

In the early 1800's, bottles became recorders of American history. Special "historical flasks" were molded to show likenesses of heroes and popular figures. The opening of canals and railroads and the launching of ships also were commemorated in glass bottles.

Black Leads Texas Open

Joe Shoots 64 In First Round

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 14 (AP)—Joe Black, a lanky Texan, today took the first round lead in the $20,000 Texas Open with a 7-under-par 64.

He held a stroke lead over another newcomer to the pro tour, Bob Kay of West Hartford, Conn., and Ed Furgol, the old campaigner from St. Andrews, Ill.

The only money that Black, a pro only 3½ years, ever won was $57 in a 3-a-mateur at Tucson last week and $110 he got for finishing in the Western Open in 1956. His highest place in a tournament was at Pensacola, Fla., last winter when he wound up twenty-sixth and won nothing.

Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, Wesley Ellis of Riverdale, N.J., Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and Jimmy Walkup of Cleveland were tied at 66, a stroke back of Kay and Furgol.

Turner Sparks Shepherd Quint To 99-76 Win

Shepherd led 44-40 at the half. Glenn Nelson of Newport News was the game's high scorer with 26 points. Behind him was Bill Grant of Shepherd with 24.

Shepherd now has a 10-8 record. Newport News is 6-10.

Celtics Beaten

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Feb. 14 (AP)—The Fort Wayne Pistons, scheduled to move to Detroit after this season, gave the home folks a treat tonight as they outlasted the Boston Celtics 112-106.

Minneapolis came from behind to beat New York in the first game of the National Basketball Assn. double-header, 99-97.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14—(INS)—Signing Monica Lewis was a good day's work for Jack Webb, who put her under contract to play opposite him in "D. I." (drill instructor), his next feature motion picture at Warners. I have always thought Monica was one of our most attractive singer-actresses.

At the time she married Jennings Lang, Monica told me that she was flirting with the idea of retiring from her career. Then Jennings encouraged her to accept engagements in San Francisco and Reno, plus several good TV appearances.

Jack tells me his "D. I." epic is a drama about a tough drill instructor at the Parris Island Marine training base. He'll produce and direct as well as emote and it is his next independent firm for Mark VII Productions.

Like the good old days to visit three busy stages on the 20th Century-Fox lot. Had a wonderful time chatting with Cary Grant and Leo McCarey on "An Affair To Remember" set.

While I was there, a coat for Deborah Kerr in one of my favor-party, but others dropped by including Buddy Adler, director Henry Levin, producer Sam Engel, Clifton Webb, Terry Moore, Pat Boone, James Drury and his bride of a week, Greek actress Crisallia Orton, Ronnie Burns and Dean Jagger.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Ariene Dahl and Fernando Lamas leased a house in New York and sent for their furniture. Fernando will be in "Happy Hunting" for a year, and Ariene has many irons in the fire, too.

Flamingo's Abe Schiller went directly from the Jack Benny testimonial dinner to Cedars of Lebanon for minor surgery.

Ringsiding at the Mocambo at Monique Van Voren's opening were Joan Collins and Charlie Chaplin Jr., once a big two some. Looks as if Joan and Arthur Loew Jr., have parted for keeps.

The pretty red-head dining with Joe Kirkwood Jr., at Sportsmen's Lodge was Arleen Whelan.

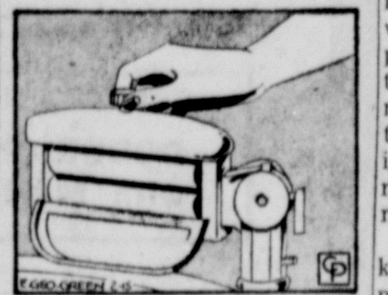

No doubt that Pat Boone is going to get a plus for his acting in "Bernardine." I watched him do a scene and he was smooth as satin.

There's a deal on for Margaret O'Brien to do Juliet to John Barrymore Jr.'s Romeo at the Pasadena Playhouse. Joan Caulfield's sister Betty is expecting her third baby. She's married to Carl Vidor, airline pilot.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

WIFE PRESERVER

If the wringer rolls of your washing machine are not self-adjusting, be sure they are set to the right pressure for the thickness of the clothes. Too much pressure is hard on wringer and motor; too little does not wring the clothes dry enough.

Plan one day a month as your day — take time out to be lazy.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A Day Of Your Own

Good advice can be awfully contradictory. You're told on the one hand that it's good to be busy, that it keeps you alert, bright, useful and full of subjects to talk about.

On the other hand, many's the warning about taking on too much, living your life too fast and suffering from tension that keeps you from being your most charming self.

The best answer, of course, to maintaining a busy schedule without damage to looks and disposition is to be exacting about the number of hours of sleep you need at night, every night. And there's a lot to be said for knowing how to snatch five to fifteen minutes at least twice a day for rest and relaxation.

Lose yourself in an entertaining book, listen to music there hasn't been time to appreciate. Shut off the telephone if you can. Rule out thinking about anything that may be a worry.

Most women enjoy a day of their own more if they perform a beauty routine there's not often time for, a very special facial or the most leisurely and luxurious of baths. Others might add to their pleasure by spending an hour writing notes to far-off friends they are fond of, or engaging in a quiet hobby.

Don't say it—you're too busy. The busier you are, the more you need a day of your own. Find the time for it just as you do for so many things that can't do half as much good.

Tomorrow—Get the most out of exercise

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (INS)—The passing show: Conrad Hilton is going to open a Greek restaurant. It will be at the corner of Queen Sophia and King Constantine Boulevards, in Athens. They've needed a place there for a long time, many Greeks agree.

The restaurant, of course, will be only one of several in Hilton's proposed Athens Hilton, the newest announced member of a hotel chain that one day expects to encircle the earth between normal plane hops. This one will be built in cooperation with Apostolos Pezas, Greek financier and shipowner, and the Greek government.

Hilton told me the other day that he still has high hopes that the Nile Hilton will be completed. It was perhaps half done when Nasser blew his top. Also in the building stage are the Habana Hilton, the Acapulco Hilton, and Berlin Hilton. Communists in Rome have retarded the beginning of the Hilton hotel there, but the hotels in Tokyo, Bangkok, Thailand and Baghdad will soon be started, and perhaps one in Sydney.

Hilton has his hands and mind full. At the formal opening of the Istanbul Hilton he met and shook hands with every employee of that fabled place, every guest and guests of guests. One face in the blur of aces seemed to pique his interest.

"What do you do around here?" Hilton asked the little man, shaking his hand. The man looked at Hilton rather bleakly and said, levelly, "Built it."

Tell Junior to lay off the spinach and tackle those eggs. Modern chemistry, farmer needs, and so forth are on his side.

Big butter and egg man was telling us today that per capita consumption of eggs has dropped alarmingly despite an over-all increase in production. New Yorkers, he said with a shudder, eat only half an egg per person per day.

The national consumption is 167,000,000 eggs a day, but it should be more from a nutritional standpoint, the man said.

This is unprovoked invasion of drama critic John McClain's beach but an Irish source — the Bulletin of external affairs — harder theater than the B'way of 1957. It was the opening at Dublin's Abbey Theater, just 50 years ago this week, of John Millington Synge's "The Playboy of the Western World." It wasn't what the critics did to the play, it was what the patrons did to the chairs. The morning after it opened a Dublin paper reported:

"Remarkable scenes were witnessed last evening at the Abbey Theater. The performance had not proceeded for more than ten minutes when it was obvious that the house was not disposed to a favourable reception of the piece. 'The first act was given amidst a scene of great disorder and before its close Mr. W. C. Fay came to the footlights and announced that anyone who did not like it would be well advised to leave the building. A crash of disorder was the response and the lusty singing of 'The West's Asleep.'"

"The police were summoned. . . . Seems that they, in turn, were thrown out when they objected to a line in the play that called them Peelers — after Sir Robert Peel. Later in the week, 300 police were needed to preserve a measure of order when the weak-willed boy who believes he has killed his father boasts 'I just riz the loy and fell the edge of it on the ridge of his skull and he went down at my feet like an empty sack.'"

"For the first week," said a contemporary, "nobody except the players heard anything." W. B. Yeats, director of the theater, held nightly debates on the merits and flaws of the play. The Abbey, he stormed, "would fight for freedom of expression." And thus it was born. (Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)

"Everything But the Truth"

"Has anybody seen my Master?"

"I'll never run away again, if he'll just come and pick me up. Let me tell you what happened. . . . After I slipped my leash, I went exploring. And before long I was lost and it got dark, so I curled up in an old box and slept. In the morning I began looking for home again, and that's when I met The Boy."

"He seemed so friendly. . . and I was so hungry that I ran right to him when I smelled that tempting meat he was holding out. But when I went to take it, he grabbed me around the middle, shoved me under his coat, and started to run. The next thing I knew I was being pushed into a truck that was already jam-packed with dogs of every description—big fellows, mostly. They started an awful ruckus when I was crammed in—and then I heard a man say he guessed he wouldn't take me after all, because I didn't weigh enough to make me worth much at the laboratory. So they turned me loose, and I made tracks away from there as fast as I could run."

"Now, if I could only find my Master. . . ."

What happened to Mickey can happen to any pet

Vagabond or blueblood, any dog or cat is just as much saleable merchandise to "the man with the truck" (see newspaper clipping at right). Just another trusting pet to be snatched from surroundings he loves and a family he adores. . . . hauled into a quivering mass of pets so tightly packed they can hardly breathe. . . . left to hunger and thirst and whimper for help from friends he will never see.

A uniform, nation-wide law is needed to protect pets . . . and young people

The brutal unregulated interstate transportation of animals for vivisection has no place in civilized society. It can and must be stopped by Federal law. And once that is done, we will have smashed the vicious system which is enrolling countless hundreds of our youth in a kindergarten of crime.

We now have thousands of letters, from Senators to our members, ranging in sentiment from sympathy to positive promises to support such legislation. Your membership will be one more potent reason for legislators to heed seriously our plea for a Federal law. Will you join us in an all-out effort to put a stop to a practice which is cruelty to animals—robbery to their owners—and moral corruption to the youth who are snared into the scheme?

responsibilities. In the next, flattery and cajoling Robert de Beaudrincourt into providing her with a horse and an escort, she is a hoyden and minx and finally, talking the Dauphin into some semblance of kinship, she is both a soldier and statesman. A saint she is not, even at the stake.

Frankly, I am always uplifted by the vigor and dash of those scenes which show Joan accomplishing her incredible mission and let down sharply by the trial scenes which seem in contrast painful and dusty theological. The best lines at the trial are Joan's own words, in which she repeatedly confounds the best theological brains around. "Are you in a state of Grace?" — "If I am not, God will put me there. If I am, God will keep me there."

Miss Harris was surrounded by a very distinguished cast but, apart from Boris Karloff as a very sympathetic bishop torn between his humanity and his beliefs, I don't think any of them measured up to Miss Harris. As the Dauphin, Eli Wallach was much too full of little acting tricks and postures to be quite

St. Joan As A Girl

I have seen quite a few St. Joans, possibly too many. There is a law of diminishing returns on St. Joan and, after a bit, the wonder begins to diminish and then it is time for a long rest — about a ten year's rest — because if you ever lose the wonder of that girl, you're lost.

Through all the stage St. Joans — Bernard Shaw's, Maxwell Anderson's, and the Jean Anouilh-Lillian Hellman one — I have retained my own mental image of St. Joan as a small, nut brown, wiry peasant girl, not especially pretty, with a ready, witty tongue and a passionate soul that could strike sparks off the second balcony. Otherwise, how did she ever get away with it all?

Of all the St. Joans I have seen, I should say Julie Harris fits the image best. In fact, come to think of it, she's the only one who fits it at all. Ingrid Bergman, in the Maxwell Anderson version on the stage, was admirably impassioned but much too beautiful and much too big for the story of Joan, starting with Katherine Cornell in Shaw's St. Joan was moving but she was, I thought, too womanly, too stately, and — odd as it may seem — too saintly for the part.

St. Joan must be first a girl.

She was, after all, only nineteen when she died. Julie Harris looks like a girl and a very remarkable one, which she must have been to have accomplished what she did. In Hallmark's admirable presentation of "The Lark" on NBC-TV the other night, which was lifted with some excisions and some additions from the stage version presented by Kermit Bloomgarden, the emphasis of the author, it seemed to me, is on the sheer remarkableness of the girl's life.

Mr. Anouilh has said of his play: "The Lark" makes no attempt to explain the mystery of Joan. The persistent effort of so-called modern minds to explain mysteries is, in any case, one of the most naive and foolish activities indulged in by the puny human brain since it became overstocked with shallow political and scientific notions. . . . I always refuse to tell children how things work, even when I know; and in the case of Joan I did not know."

The play starts with the trial scene and then by flashbacks tells the story of Joan, starting with her days on the farm. For a peasant girl, just to get off the farm was 'no mean accomplishment, and in this scene Miss Harris is very much a girl — overwhelmed by her voices and her

Fire Damages Installation At Barton Mine

DeShong Coal Co. Has $3,000 Loss

Fire damaged the scale house, supply house and a portion of the coal tipples at the DeShong Coal Company's mines about one-half mile from Barton, yesterday. Damage, partially covered by insurance, is estimated at around $3,000.

The coal mine and tipples are located about a quarter-mile from State Route 36 and a passerby noticed the fire and summoned the Barton Volunteer Fire Company. Twelve men from the fire company responded with two pumps and the unit's equipment truck at about 4 p. m. They remained at the scene for an hour and a half.

There was no water in the immediate vicinity and firemen used booster tanks from both trucks and chemicals to extinguish the blaze.

The cause was not definitely determined, but firemen believe the fire may have started from the coal stove heater in the tool and supply house.

The mine, a 36-inch Bakertown seam, is a deep mine which was opened a number of years ago. Harry N. DeShong of Mill Run began operating the mine in 1954 and has been buying the place from his father, Harry H. DeShong, also of Mill Run. It previously had been operated by the Thrasher Coal Company on a lease arrangement.

Mr. DeShong last night said 12 men have been regularly employed and about 60 tons of coal a day has been produced.

The mine operator said he and another man had been in the supply house earlier, and had waited there until shifts changed. They accompanied the second shift into the pit, and were inside when the firemen arrived. The miners did not know anything about the fire until electric power to their cutting machine was cut off by the firemen who fought the flames.

Mr. DeShong explained that considerable equipment, a supply of tools and battery lamps were lost, but the operation of the mine will be resumed Monday or Tuesday, after some necessary repairs are made and the lamps can be replaced.

Fire Chief Howard Wilkes of Barton said an overheated stove or an ember from the stove could have started the blaze and he estimated the loss between $2,000 to $3,000 in buildings, tools and mining equipment.

Freak Pole Accident Injures Man

A 27-year-old truck driver for the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company was reported in "fair" condition last night at Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted yesterday morning with injuries sustained in an unusual accident which occurred while he was working.

Attaches said Charles F. Piper, of 529 Furnace Street, is suffering from a possible fractured skull and X-rays were to be taken.

The accident occurred in the vicinity of the company's quarry above Locust Grove on Wills Mountain. David C. Martin, company superintendent, gave this account of the accident.

Mr. Piper and Herman Martz, another driver, were sent to obtain three steel drums of water and were traveling in a dump truck. Mr. Martz was driving and Mr. Piper was on the rear of the vehicle.

A pole had been stuck in one of the drums and as the truck traveled under an overhead cable, arched like a bow. When the end of the pole reached the cable, it swung to the rear of the truck, hit Mr. Piper and knocked him from the vehicle.

He was taken to the local hospital in the Astor ambulance. Mr. Martin said the company is doing some construction on a new crusher at the quarry and the two men were sent for the water to be used in the concrete.

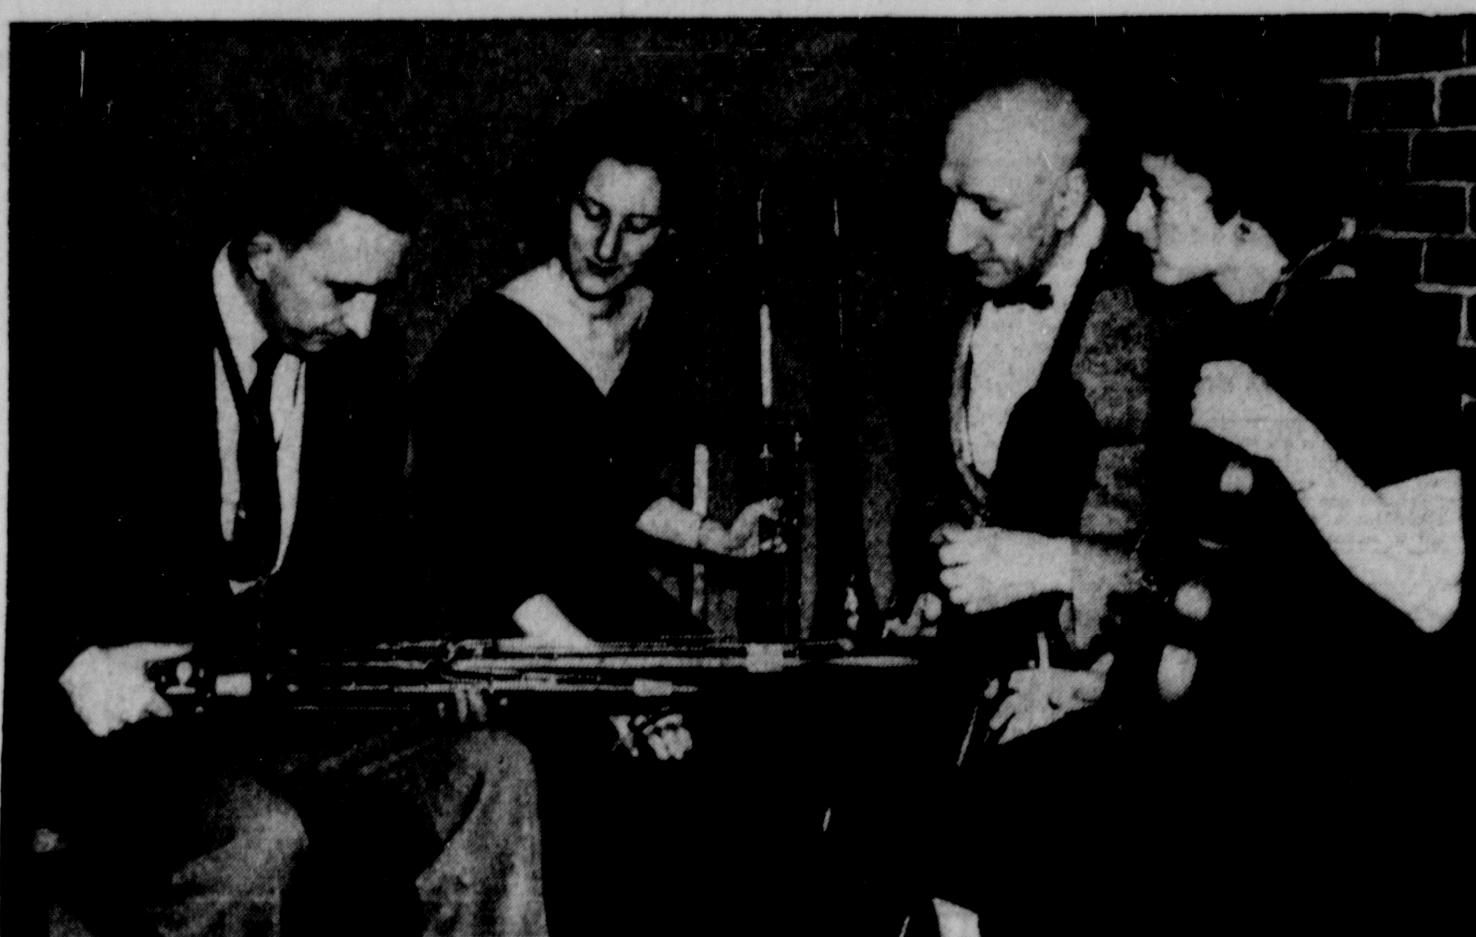

Rape Trial Set Mar. 11

The rape trial of two Klondike men, removed last fall from Allegany County to the Sixth Judicial Circuit in Frederick, is currently scheduled to be heard before Associate Judge Patrick M. Schauffner in Frederick March 11.

Leo Neil Drew, 23, and Glenn Morgan, 25, were indicted for rape by the October grand jury in Allegany County following an alleged attack on a 18-year-old Lonaconing girl last May 16.

Both were released on $10,000 bond after habeas corpus proceedings before Chief Judge George Henderson here. They petitioned to have the trial removed from Allegany County.

They were arrested May 18 by Trooper Milton G. Hart who investigated the offense with County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya. A second charge of rape also was placed against Morgan in involving a 14-year-old girl. Morgan petitioned to have this case removed also.

Travel Said Hazardous After Snow

Garrett County Hit By Five-Inch Fall

One of this winter's heaviest snowfalls hit the Tri-State area yesterday and although signs of clearing were noted in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and east of Cumberland, the bad weather continued to plague Garrett County late last night.

The snow storm which struck early in Garrett County hit the Cumberland area about 9 a. m. yesterday and continued until approximately 3 p. m. Robert R. Golden, local weather observer, said the city had 2.4 inches of snow in the period and although much of it melted in the afternoon sunshine, freezing weather last night made conditions very slippery.

The high temperature for the day was 35 degrees at Constitution Park and was below freezing last night and dropping. Some brisk winds accompanied the snow, swirling the flakes and making road travel dangerous.

East of Cumberland, state police reported, the mountains had about three inches of snow but highways were reported clear last night.

In West Virginia the Romney detachment of the state police said only snow swirls were reported. Temperatures there were in the mid 30s all day and roads were dry.

R. W. Weber, weather observer in Oakland, said the snow continued until after 9 p. m. and was blowing and swirling there. Approximately five inches of snow was recorded in Garrett County and road conditions were reported very hazardous west of Cumberland.

State Roads Commission crews were clearing and salting the highways late last night and with the mercury dropping steadily freezing made conditions much worse. The thermometer read 20 degrees above zero at 10 p. m. in Oakland.

Slushy conditions made by yesterday afternoon's warm sun, froze late last night and chains were recommended for motorists. A minimum of travel was advised to the west, state police said.

Clearing and colder conditions are forecast for today.

Speakers' Bureau Seeks More Boy Scout Leaders

A 20-man speakers' bureau has been activated by the Potomac Council of Boy Scouts of America to emphasize the need for increased adult leadership in the movement within the six-county area served by the council, according to Willis V. Smith, scout executive.

There are now some 2,000 Boy Scouts in the Potomac Council which includes Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and Hampshire, Hardy, Grant and Mineral counties in West Virginia. Dr. Thomas Bess of Keyser, president of the Potomac Council, predicted that the number could be doubled to 4,000 if enough dedicated men could be found willing to serve as scoutmasters. He made that observation as speaker at the meeting yesterday of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club.

Dr. Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of Allegany County public schools, is chairman of the speakers' bureau which has just become active this month. Mr. Smith said that about 20 programs already have been presented or have been arranged by the speakers' bureau, which will remain active throughout the year.

Premium Pay Sought For SRC Special Work

Sen. See Sponsors Coal Weight Bill

Crews called out to keep Maryland roads open when bad weather hits would receive premium pay under bills introduced in the Senate and the House.

Senator Charles M. See called for the proposal in Senate Bill 347, which was introduced Wednesday and referred to the Senate Finance committee.

He said it calls for the State Roads Commission to pay time and one-half to men called out at night for emergency work. A similar measure was introduced in the House by Delegate Lester B. Reed and four other delegates.

Entered as House Bill 447, and referred to the Ways and Means committee, it would provide time and a half pay for SRC employees working on emergency calls after their normal eight-hour day.

Sponsors Weight Bill Senator See yesterday introduced Senate Bill 353, which would exempt truckers hauling coal to industrial plants and other large users from one provision of the state's weights and measures law.

He said such truckers would be allowed to use scale weights taken at the mine, instead of having the load weighed at a public scale.

The plan, he said, has the approval of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher and of industrial users of coal. Scales at the mines are inspected by the state, he added.

He said all coal delivered to other than the large users must be weighed in accordance with existing state law.

The law was eased recently in Allegany County to permit trucks used to deliver coal to be weighed empty once a month, instead of each 24 hours.

Backs Salary Boost Today, Sen. See will report out favorably House Bill 267, which provides that Orphans Court judges in Allegany County be paid

PSC Dockets Request To Stop Rail Service

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 14.—A request of the Western Maryland Railway to abandon round-trip passenger train service between Elkins and Cumberland, Md. was docketed by the Public Service Commission today.

The commission announced it would hear the case next Wednesday. Western Maryland wants to discontinue a train which operates each way daily, except Sunday, over the 112-mile route.

The railway estimated its annual loss on the service at $55,000. A number of protests from individuals and organizations along the route already are on file with the PSC.

Dr. Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of Allegany County public schools, is chairman of the speakers' bureau which has just become active this month. Mr. Smith said that about 20 programs already have been presented or have been arranged by the speakers' bureau, which will remain active throughout the year.

Local Civic Symphony Adds To Culture Of Area

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT News Staff Writer

"A butcher, a baker, a candlestick maker," is part of an old nursery rhyme, but it could almost apply to the personnel of a loyal group which is bringing to Cumberland a very definite note of culture, equalled nowhere in the state outside of Baltimore City.

Cumberland's Civic Orchestra is the only civic symphony in the state outside of the professional Baltimore Civic Symphony Orchestra. But it is no less ambitious and dedicated.

Organized 11 years ago under the baton of S. Lua Syckes, this group of local musicians has attracted rehearsals loyally, and boasts of almost 100 per cent attendance at rehearsals and concerts. The personnel has undergone some changes, however, and younger musicians have replaced many who helped form the organization. In fact, only 12 of the 35 charter members remain.

Known as the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra for several years, the name was recently changed to Cumberland Civic Orchestra, on the belief that the word "symphony" might cause some people to shy away from the regularly scheduled concerts. Each year, three public concerts have been offered, and next season, six are planned.

The spring concert is scheduled for Tuesday at 8:15 p. m. in Fort Hill High School auditorium. A marked feature of this event is that the last half of the program will be made up entirely of the orchestral arrangements of popular music. If this idea is accepted by the music audience, the orchestra plans several summer "pop" concerts this year, perhaps outdoors.

Two years ago, Conductor Syckes yielded his baton to his brother, Wilton Syckes, former concert master, who now leads the orchestra and has added to its number and its repertoire. The orchestra boasts an extensive library of music and a balanced aggregation of instruments and musicians.

Included in the membership are students, teachers, painters, plumbers, housewives, businessmen, industrialists and professional people, all dedicated to music as a cultural hobby and in some instances as a profession. None, however, receives any financial remuneration for the time spent in rehearsing, planning, playing and working together.

The charter members of the orchestra still active with the group include Miss Dorothy Willson, 201 Fayette Street, a high school music teacher; Dr. Walter H. Waughman, 117 Harrison Street, osteopath; Robert H. Ap

Delegates Vote 95-9 To Repeal Auto Tag Boost

Two Democrats Among Opponents

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 14.—The House of Delegates refused to wait longer and voted today in the face of a threatened veto to repeal higher license tag fees for motor vehicles.

The bill goes back to the Senate tomorrow for concurrence in minor amendments and Monday goes to Gov. McKeldin, who has stated his opposition to repeal of the increases. He has approved yearly postponements since 1954.

The delegates first rejected a motion to withhold action until Monday night and then voted 95-9 for repeal. Del. Nowakowski (D-Balto 1st) sought the delay so he could propose that the scheduled increases apply only to trucks.

Del. Mrozinski (D-Balto 1st) said he planned to introduce a new bill to that effect Monday night.

Want Salary Control In the Senate, Majority Leader Turnbull (D-Balto County) successfully pushed closer to approval two measures aimed at giving the Legislature control over salaries of State employees.

They would require legislative approval before any increases could be initiated by the Standard Salary Board or the governor through budget amendments.

Under the Turnbull legislation, developed from a study by a committee under Sen. Northrop (D-Montgomery), the Legislature would have to approve such increases in its budget consideration before they became effective.

Turnbull said this would prevent a recurrence of the $1,700,000 in raises granted since the 1956 legislative session without approval of the General Assembly.

The House repeal vote was 21 more than needed to override a veto. All 29 senators had voted for it originally.

Cross Party Lines

While House Majority Leader Boone (D-Balto County) sought to pin a Democratic label on the repeal move, there was some straying across party lines. Two Democrats, Dels. Jackson of Baltimore County and Polk of Worcester, were among the nine opposed. Thirteen of the 25 Republicans in the House went along.

Boone opposed both the idea of taxing only trucks more and of delaying the repeal.

Del. Lee (D-Montgomery) in arguing for repeal said the State Roads Commission had failed to "make a case" for putting the higher fees into effect. He also accused the commission of lacking imagination in seeking new taxes instead of wanting only to raise existing. Lee said the Ways and Means Committee had taken such initiative by introducing tomorrow a bill to make interstate trucks traveling through Maryland pay the equivalent of the State gasoline tax.

Del. Culotta (R-Balto 3rd) asked if Lee felt the commission didn't need the extra license fee money "why try to offset it with a new tax."

"The State Roads Commission is a bottomless pit, it will happily use every dollar sent it," Lee replied. He said the tax on interstate trucks should have been in effect before.

License Renewal Plan Gets New Lease On Life

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 14.—Renewal of motor vehicle driving licenses every three years got a new legislative lease on life today.

The House Judiciary Committee gave an unfavorable report to the proposal in one form last week. Sen. Rasin (D-Kent) introduced exactly the same bill today.

Senator Turnbull (D-Balto County) wants the State to pick up the tab for support of the aviation commission. He would repeal State taxes on airplanes which now finance the commission.

Turnbull said support of the commission "should be the responsibility of the state."

JAMES E. BARKLEY

Wiley Ford Driller Dies Suddenly

Broken Neck Causes Death

West Virginia authorities surmise James Eugene Barkley, 23, of Wiley Ford, died instantly yesterday morning as a result of a broken neck sustained in an accident which occurred near his home while he was working on a well-drilling project.

The young man was working alone at the time of the accident which occurred about 10:10 a. m. C. J. Phillips, of Ridgeley, acting coroner of Mineral County, who said the death apparently was accidental, said the victim had gone to work on the well about 9:30 a. m. and was dead for about 25 minutes before being found by a neighbor who saw him lying on the ground.

Donald C. Hott, prosecuting attorney, who investigated with Sheriff Walter O. Mott and Deputy Sheriff Marlin Biggs, said the bit with which the victim was working apparently hit the well casing.

A steel cable holding the bit jumped off the pulley atop the rig allowing the bit to fall and strike the victim on the head. When the neighbor arrived on the scene, he found Mr. Barkley lying on the ground and the drilling machine still running.

He immediately notified the victim's parents. A native of Wiley Ford, the victim resided on Spring Street in that community. Mr. Barkley was employed by his father and had been working for three days on the well located on the property of a neighbor, William Wright.

Surviving besides his parents, Jessie and Sarah (Martin) Barkley, are three sisters, Mrs. Martha N. Golden, of Wiley Ford; Mrs. Clondetta B. Arbogast, Cardon, Ohio, and Miss Deborah R. Barkley, at home.

A veteran of the Korean conflict, the victim was a member of the Army Reserve and also the Elder Street Assembly of God Church. He was born December 18, 1932, in Wiley Ford.

The body is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home.

$10,000 Damage Suit Filed Here

A local resident is seeking $10,000 damages for injuries he says were sustained last year in a fall which occurred on the premises of 317 Columbia Street.

William E. Knippenberg, of 317 Bedford Street, through his attorneys, Earl E. Manges and Fred Anderson, filed a damage suit yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court for $10,000 from Cyrus M. and Cleda B. Cook of 317 Columbia Street.

According to the declaration Mr. Knippenberg became a tenant in a two-room apartment at 317 Columbia Street on December 3, 1953, and remained a tenant until after April 28, 1956.

About 8 p. m. April 28, Mr. Knippenberg claims he was walking through an unlighted hallway at the address and fell over a cardboard box containing a heater. As a result of the fall he was injured and incurred medical expenses.

House Backs Bills To Boost SRC's Power

Advance Acquisition Of Land Is Favored

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 14.—The House Ways and Means Committee today approved bills to strengthen the State Roads Commission's hand in building and operating highways.

At the same time, it directed that an attorney general's opinion be obtained on whether the SRC has authority to rescind an agreement made with legislators in 1953 not to build U.S. 301 as a controlled access highway.

The developments came as the Ways and Means Committee began moving a batch of legislation relating to commission activities.

It gave favorable reports to bills which would:

Would Save Money Set up a revolving fund of 2 million dollars a year for purchase of rights-of-way well in advance of construction dates in the 12-year roads program. Officials estimate it will result in great financial savings.

Grant the SRC authority to regulate location of screens and entrances at drive-in theaters where they create traffic problems on highways.

Permit the commission to work out mutual agreements with all counties on exchanging responsibility for maintenance of certain roads. Six Eastern Shore counties previously were excluded.

Tighten the law which exempts trucks carrying "loose materials in bulk" from prosecution for being over legal weight limits. SRC officials said the law was intended for loads of gravel, sand, and other absorbent materials which might be made heavier by rain, but trucks carrying cement, scrap iron and similar substances are escaping penalty under it.

Won't Give Monopoly

The SRC also promised to submit a bill within the next two weeks to provide for regulated service areas on controlled access highways in Maryland.

Chairman Robert O. Bonnell told the committee the commission has been making a study of service areas on turnpikes in other states preliminary to drafting its own legislation.

He said it would not permit any single gas company or restaurant chain to have a monopoly on facilities along a given route.

He discussed the proposal after legislators complained that Maryland is presently losing money in gasoline taxes by not having such facilities for motorists using its expressways.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Joseph Buscher said that in addition to the gas tax the State will receive from filling station licensees approximately 6 or 7 cents a gallon in return for lease of the areas.

After hearing plans for the SRC bill, the committee killed a measure by Del. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges) which called for permitting a "reasonable number" of filling stations and other facilities on limited or controlled access highways.

Burial Legislation

It also buried some other legislation to which roads commission officials objected, including bills to exclude automobile trade-ins from the 2 per cent motor vehicle titling tax and to prohibit anyone serving the SRC in an advisory capacity from doing business with the commission.

The request for an attorney general's ruling on the U.S. 301 agreement came from Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th), who had brought the matter up at hearings last week on the 12-year roads program.

Shut Down Set For Pipe Job

The city's water filtration plant will be out of operation for four hours today while crews make a connection in a 36-inch pipe, according to Water Commissioner William J. Edwards.

He said the work will have no effect upon water pressure in Cumberland, as reservoirs will maintain water pressure during the period.

The only customers who may be affected, he said, are a few families who live between here and Lake Gordon.

The connection to be made by crews of the Walter N. Yoder and Sons firm, the piping sub-contractor, is one of two connections needed between the filter plant and the new contact basins.

The second connection, which will reverse the flow of water, is to be made soon.

The piping work is among the last to be done in connection with a $298,000 contract being completed by the Hazelwood Construction Company. It included the rehabilitation of 12 old filters and the construction of two contact basins.

Equipment for the combination mixing and flocculation basins was purchased by the city for $50,738 from the Inflico firm of Tucson, Ariz.
